Putnam Valley Fiscal Policy Found Too Loose

NEW YORK (AP)—A special report of the Legislative Watchdog Committee said today that the Town of Putnam Valley had "a loose and irresponsible fiscal policy."

It criticized various officials and said one of them and a former office holder could be subject to prosecution.

The committee said it was sending a copy of its report to the Putnam County district attorney.

Say Rush Got $23,000

The report said Frank W. Rush, while an assessor, received more than $23,000 from the town through the sale of gravel and rental of trucks from 1952 through May 1957, although the law forbids a town official from doing business with the town.

It said Paul E. Schmittman Sr., highway superintendent, approved vouchers for payments that made their way to Rush through other persons.

The committee conducted its investigation after receiving a complaint from Samuel L. Slutsky, a Republican councilman of the town. Rush and Schmittman are Democrats.

'Absentee Electorate'

Putnam Valley was described in the report as a resort area with a population of 1,908 in the 1950 census but with a summer population of about 25,000.

It said many of the summer residents vote in Putnam Valley "so that the elected officials of the town are chosen by what is, in practical effect, an absentee electorate."

The committee report said in part: "There is no question that Schmittman, as highway superintendent, was under official obligation not to approve the vouchers submitted in the Rush transactions if he knew Rush was the real party in interest."

"Approval with such knowledge should make him subject to prosecution... and should make Rush subject to prosecution... for having aided and abetted Schmittman in the violation thereof."

850,000 Struck by Asian Flu Upstate During 1957

ALBANY (AP)—Asian flu struck 850,000 persons in the Upstate-Long Island areas of New York last year, the State Health Department said today.

At the same time, the department said in its annual report, substantial gains were made in the war on tuberculosis, polio and cancer.

Children bore the brunt of the Asian flu attack in New York State, the report said. The disease reached its peak in September and October. There were 205 Asian flu-related deaths in October alone, the department added.

The department, which has jurisdiction over all of the state except New York City, said the death rate from tuberculosis fell to 5.4 per 100,000 population, compared with 6.3 in 1956. However, there were still 462 resident deaths from tuberculosis in 1957, the report added.

The tuberculosis death rate has fallen 69 per cent since 1950, the department said.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, said "excellent cooperation was received from citizen, voluntary and professional groups... in combatting the influenza epidemic and controlling paralytic polio."

There were 67 cases of paralytic polio in the state last year, compared with 311 in 1956 and an average of 959 from 1951 to 1953.

The decrease was attributed to the widespread use of Salk anti-polio vaccine.

An estimated 92 per cent of the population under 20 has received one or more injections of the vaccine, the department said.

"However, the figure for the population groups 20 to 40 years of age is only 39 per cent," it added. "This would indicate the need for continuing efforts toward complete vaccination."

The department said numerous scientific achievements were registered during the year at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, the department's cancer research center. In Buffalo today, scientists at Roswell Park

Investigation of the conclave at Apalachin on Nov. 14, the committee said:

Reveals Defect

"The incident reveals a serious defect in the state's law enforcement apparatus..."

"The Apalachin meeting emphasizes the need for a bureau of centralized police intelligence and continuous investigative action directed at organized crime and racketeering on a statewide basis."

Legislation to Enlarge the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation was approved at the recent session of the Legislature.

Croswell Praised

The committee lauded Sgt. Edgar D. Croswell of the State Police for his discovery of the party and for breaking it up. But the committee said he was handicapped in his investigation of those present by lack of "effective means for the quick obtaining and collation of pertinent information" on their backgrounds.

The committee said it had been unable to ascertain the exact reasons for the gathering, at which it said approximately 65 persons were present—coming from such distant points as California, Florida, Texas and Cuba.

However, it was undoubtedly a "grand council" session of the Mafia or "Black Hand" society, a worldwide association profiting from virtually every type of crime and even a few legitimate enterprises obtained with proceeds from illegal activities, the committee said.

The meeting was termed "strong evidence that there exists in this country an active association or organization of criminals whose operations are nationwide and international."

Lengthy Review

The committee headed by Assemblyman William F. Horan (R-Tuckahoe), reviewed at length the circumstances surrounding the discovery and breakup of the swanky hilltop meeting at the swanky hilltop home of Joseph Barbara.

However, it said that Croswell and other police who joined him had to release the participants in the end because not a single one was wanted by authorities anywhere. At the same time, the officers could not gain any evidence that the meeting was for an illegal purpose.

Just the same, the committee added, all but nine of those present had criminal records.

The committee, which was abolished by the Legislature, said it would issue a further report later after a study as to whether any changes should be made in the state's criminal law.

Other parleys in recent years were in a remote section of the Florida Keys in 1952, a Miami hotel in 1953, the Town of River Forest, Ill., and later in a Chicago hotel in July 1954, and at Binghamton, in 1956. Barbara also was host to the Binghamton gathering.

Mayor Radel also charged:

"Once again the poor taste in news handling by certain individuals, who apparently make it their business to deal in unfactual, distorted and wholesale suppositions, have done untold harm to the reputations of several people, before the overall picture was available to my administration and members of the BPW."

In his Saturday statement the mayor indicated that both employees involved face possible disciplinary action.

Fowler Stresses

Attorney N. Jansen Fowler, a BPW commissioner, emphasized today, meanwhile, that decision to reinstate Frederick Stratton, of 84 Lincoln Street, a motor equipment operator, who had been temporarily suspended, was made by the BPW as a body.

Stratton, said to be the other person involved, was permitted to return to his job pending outcome of a full hearing when Finkle returns.

Assistant District Attorney John L. Larkin, now acting district attorney, as he had done Saturday, said no formal complaint had been made, to date, but today he said he had ordered an investigation and report on the matter.

Mayor Radel noted Saturday that he had ordered Stratton suspended when he had learned of the incident Wednesday morning, but the BPW, which convened at 1 p. m., that day favored reinstating him "until such time as all facts could be gathered, and corrective action taken."

Mayor Not Alone

Commissioner Fowler today joined Mayor Radel in the claim that the incident was "blown up out of all proportion," and he wanted to emphasize that the action taken was not that of the mayor alone, but was the decision of "the entire board."

It was undetermined today whether Finkle would return from the hospital this week.

Fowler said it was directed that all statements be reduced to writing. It was indicated Saturday that at least one statement, that of Walter Tammany, of 25 Second Avenue, department head mechanic, and a reported witness, was on record.

Records Are Good

Commissioner Fowler noted that both men have good records, and it was the feeling of the board that the trouble involved was of a personal nature, and should not have been publicized until all facts were known.

Mayor Radel in his statement Saturday said: "It was the action of the board to reinstate Stratton pending further action by the board when the injured Finkle has testified." Future action, he also indicated, will depend upon testimony of Stratton and Tammany.

Awaited Facts

The mayor also said Saturday that it was the feeling of himself and Max Oppenheimer, acting public works superintendent, that "nothing would be gained by releasing half a story" or until "such time as all facts could be gathered, and corrective action taken."

Mayor Radel also charged:

BPW Awaiting Finkle's Return

A special meeting of the Board of Public Works will be called, "if we feel it is necessary," to air facts in the reported altercation between two public works employees, Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today.

The special session, if called, would follow the return here of Ellwood Finkle, a resident of the local YMCA, who is under treatment in Albany for an apparent jaw fracture. Finkle is a working foreman in the department.

Five Hunger-Striking Cuban Rebels Are Ill

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Five of 35 hunger-striking Cuban rebel sympathizers were in a hospital today suffering from the effects of four days without food. The other 30 again refused breakfast in the Cameron County Jail.

Three of the men were taken to Mercy Hospital last night and two others today after a physician examined them.

CP Board Meeting Set for April 9

An important meeting of the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County will be held Wednesday, April 9 at 7:30 p. m. in the library of the City Laboratory.

The meeting agenda will outline plans for the 1958 campaign to raise $32,000.

This will be a combined meeting with the campaign committee, according to Dr. Henry L. Bibby, president.

Sentences Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld 5-4 the three-year contempt sentences of Communist leaders Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

The two were fugitives for almost five years after the Supreme Court in 1951 affirmed their convictions for conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government. The contempt sentences, given them in U. S. District Court in New York, stemmed from their flight.

Boy, 4, Unharmed

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Four-year-old Dwight Davis, missing all night in woodlands, was found safe and unharmed today.

A small army of volunteers and police and firefighters had just resumed a search begun late yesterday.

With the boy, who disappeared from his parent's home while his mother prepared dinner about 2 p. m. yesterday, was his pet dog, Toby, a black Spitz.

Labor Pension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee today approved a bill to regulate labor pension and welfare plans and fix federal criminal penalties for those who misuse such funds.

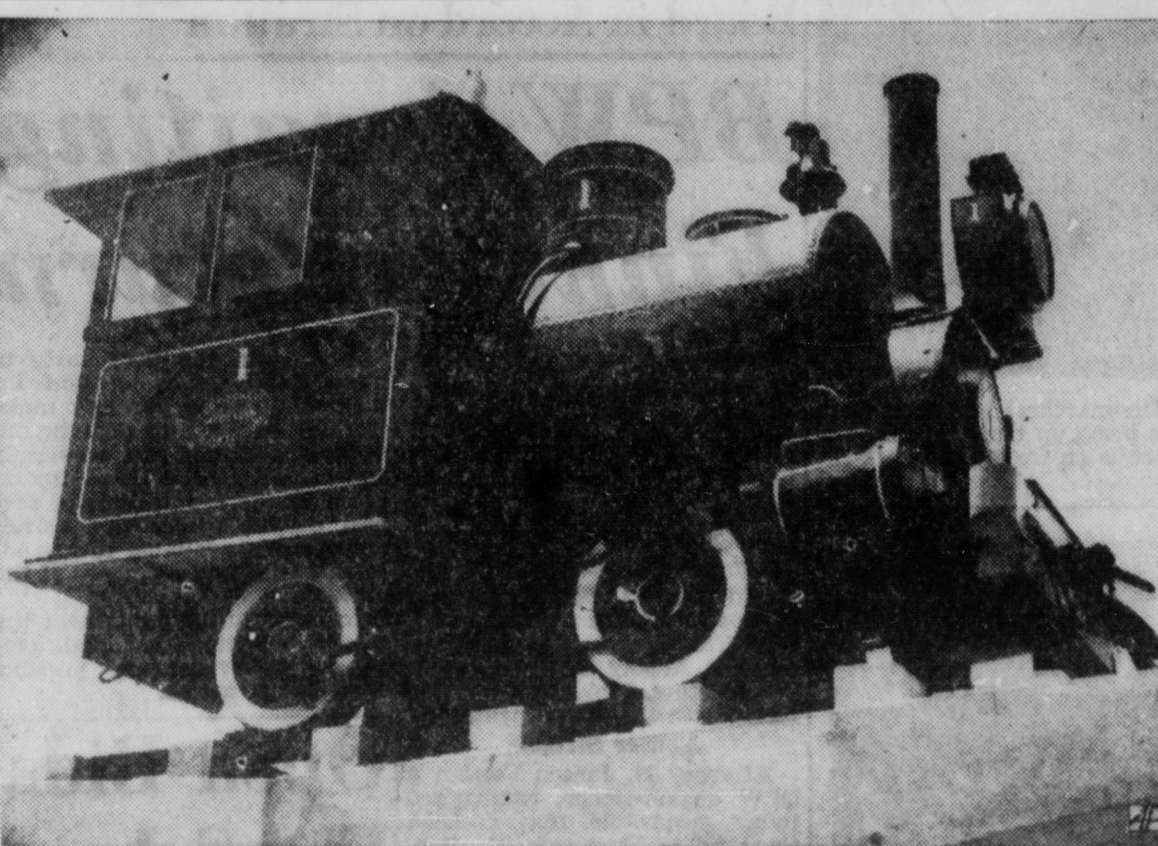

Sponsors estimate it would cover about 40,000 plans and at least two million covered employees.

Arrive at Fort Dix

Thomas E. Myers, son of Mrs. Ella Myers of 17 Downs Street, and Harold S. Van Aken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Van Aken of 15 Lucas Avenue, have arrived at Fort Dix, N. J., and assigned to Q Company of the Second Training Regiment for eight weeks basic training. Both are graduates of Kingston High School.

NEW LOOK IN SOUTHERN JURIES—South Carolina's first integrated petit jury with lady jurors was drawn in Federal Court in Florence. It was the first time women have been selected for petit jury in the state. The lady jurors are Mrs. Thomas Gasque, left, of Marion, and Mrs. William G. McCutchen, Bishopville. This also marked the first time in South Carolina history that Negroes have served on the same jury with white women. They were selected to hear a federal grain manipulation case.

LONG SERVICE REMEMBERED—Columbia's first rail locomotive has been placed on a pedestal in Medellin as a tribute to its service. It was in use from 1875 to 1928.

LIFE-LIKE—A huge portrait of Pope Pius XII towers over the Pontiff and Scottish painter Leonard Boden, 47, who created the amazingly life-like work over a period of two years. The Pope posed for this just-released photo last summer at the papal residence in Castelgandolfo, Boden, a Protestant, said, "His Holiness is a marvelous sitter."

REGIONAL TOUCH—The Thai pavilion, a synthesis of that nation's architecture and art, rises at Brussels World Fair site. It is in contrast with fair's futuristic motif.

A LA FRANCAISE—Bowling, French style, is depicted in this new stamp to be issued April 28th. The 12-franc stamp is one of a series put out by the French post office commemorating "traditional games."

Moscow Attitude On Tests Halt For Communists

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Moscow's announcement of a Soviet intention to end nuclear weapons tests is part of a determined ideological struggle on a world scale.

To gauge the real meaning of the announcement, it must be compared with concurrent statements intended only for the Communists.

Among such pronouncements is one which dramatically belied Soviet peaceful intentions where the political war was concerned. The monthly Kommunist, bible for Reds around the world, recently warned:

"It should be noted that Communists' efforts to insure peaceful coexistence of two systems not only does not remove the question of an ideological struggle, but on the contrary promotes a competition of ideas to a leading position. Rejection of competition of ideas would mean in fact capitulation to the ideology of monopolistic capital and reaction, and would bring the danger of war closer."

Such statements, stripped to essentials, mean the Communists outside the U.S.S.R. not only must avoid relaxing their efforts, but must sharpen their struggle to install Soviet influence. In this light, the nuclear weapons tests announcement becomes a most valuable instrument for a political offensive on a broad front.

The Kremlin maneuver was expected in Washington, with full knowledge of the propaganda defeat it indicated. For almost a week American policy makers waited for the blow to fall, with out much having been done in advance to counter its telling effect.

The Moscow move expresses the boldness of the man who now dominates, in name as well as in fact, both the party and government of the U.S.S.R. Nikita Khrushchev, premier and party boss, is a good gambler. In this gamble, he calculated that the United States was in a poor position to call his hand.

Taking over the premiership from Nikolai Bulganin, Khrushchev was hailed in the Soviet press as the man "whose name is inseparably connected with the outstanding success of the conduct of the Soviet Union's peace-loving foreign policy." But at the same time the Soviet press carefully characterized Khrushchev's efforts as "Leninist."

A Leninist attack requires Communists to find small sparks and fan them into flame, to strike toward lines of least resistance. Khrushchev has been doing this.

The nuclear test announcement, no matter how the U.S.S.R. intends to perform on it, unquestionably will make a big splash in Asia and Africa, which Khrushchev considers areas of least resistance to the combined Communist political and economic drives. Having chosen his targets, Khrushchev sticks tenaciously to his preconceived line, apparently confident the way to influence in Europe is through a back door opened in Asia and Africa.

Khrushchev's bold thrust requires an American answer—imaginative and equally bold.

Hawley Will Not Seek Re-election to Assembly

LAKE GEORGE (AP)—Assemblyman Stuart F. Hawley, Warren County Republican, said today he would not seek re-election next fall.

Hawley, 65, said he had been in public office for 45 years and thought that was "long enough." He served nine terms as Warren County clerk and has been in the clerk's office for 38 years. He also once was mayor of Lake George. Hawley served four two-year terms in the Assembly. He first was elected in 1950.

10 Plead Guilty In Gambling Case

Ten defendants arrested following a stickup of a floating dice game at Dairyland on February 5 entered pleas of guilty in County Court before Judge Louis G. Bruhn today.

Five were fined $50 each on pleas of guilty to a charge of common gambling.

Six entered pleas of guilty to keeping a gambling establishment and taking bets.

Lillian Kornblow, of Dairyland, on whose premises the stickup took place, was fined $200 on a charge of common gambling.

Benny Benson, of Kerhonkson, fined $500 and given a 90-day jail sentence which was suspended.

Edward King, of Ellenville, was fined $300. The fine was paid.

Theodore Levinson, of Ellenville, Harry Kendall, of Ellenville, Jerry Slutsky, of Ellenville, paid $200 each. They were charged with keeping a gambling establishment and taking bets.

George Jarow, of Ellenville, Sol Siegel, of Ellenville, and Eugene W. Amazzarelli, of New Windsor, and Robert Davis, of Ellenville, each paid a fine of $50 on a charge of being common gamblers.

Has Fainting Spell

Mrs. Gladys Myers of Saugerties was rushed by Schultz Ambulance to Kingston Hospital late this morning after she fell in front of Montgomery Ward's on North Front Street. Hospital authorities reported that Mrs. Myers had a fainting spell. She was treated and released.

Sentenced to Prison

GOSHEN (AP)—The fifth of six men seized as part of a meat truck hijacking was sentenced today to 2½ to 5 years in Sing Sing Prison.

He is Anthony J. De Massi, 23, of The Bronx, arrested after a truck loaded with $15,000 worth of meat was held up and stolen near Chester, Pa., last July.

UJW Meeting Tonight

The United Jewish Welfare Fund will hold an educational and informative meeting at the Jewish Community Center tonight at 8:30. This meeting will be the first of a series of public meetings in connection with the 1958 campaign to raise $100,000 in the Kingston area. The proceeds of the campaign will be used for local refugee work, support of local and regional services, and for the Kingston contribution to the United Jewish Appeal.

Power Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Power Authority today announced award of a contract for furnishing 14 high-voltage disconnecting switches and associated equipment for the Adirondack and Reynolds sub-stations of the St. Lawrence power project.

The contract was awarded to R and I E division of the I. T. E. Circuit Breaker Co. Greensburg, Pa., on its bid of $70,178.

Would Help Purchasing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed a bill designed to give the economy a shot in the arm by accelerating government purchasing programs.

The measure, passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate, would allow most federal agencies to start making within the next 90 days purchases of supplies and other materials which they normally would not buy until the new fiscal year starts on July 1.

Resigns From Committee

Legislative Bosses Happy Over Early Filing of Bills

ALBANY (AP)—Legislative bosses are beaming over the way their plan for early filing of bills has tended the work at the 1958 session. While the smiles are worthwhile, the legislators admit they have not eliminated all delays and disorders in the legislative machinery.

Big Three Agree To Summit Parley, After Meetings

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three today sent a note to Russia agreeing to a summit conference if diplomatic negotiations plus a foreign ministers meeting come first, diplomats here said.

The new Western note reaffirmed the view of the United States that any summit conference must be preceded by adequate preparation and have some chances of success on at least some points.

The new note was unanimously approved by all 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Western thinking was that the summit conference might be held this fall some diplomats felt.

The text of the note was to be released in London, Washington and Paris later today, informants said.

usual but committees had more time to study legislation. In a single day last year, 902 bills were introduced in the Assembly and 844 in the Senate. That was a fifth of the total for the entire three months the Legislature met.

The big rush of 1957 fell in mid-February, the deadline for general filing. After that, bills could be introduced only through the entire three months the Legislature met.

The big rush of 1957 fell in mid-February, the deadline for general filing. After that, bills could be introduced only through the rules committees of both houses.

In the early weeks of years prior to 1958, committees had few important bills to consider and reported little for floor action. The full houses met one or two days a week, then headed for home. Time was wasted.

Legislature leaders decided to do something about it. Their weapon was called "pre-filing."

Traditionally, introduction of bills begins when the lawmakers convene in early January. The leaders shoved up the date to Nov. 15.

Democrats and Republicans were encouraged to get their bills in promptly, and the leaders kept the pressure on. By January, 1,123 bills had been filed.

Committees apparently got down to work. By the end of February, the Assembly had passed 397 bills, compared with 243 in 1957. The Senate had passed 391, against 260 the previous year.

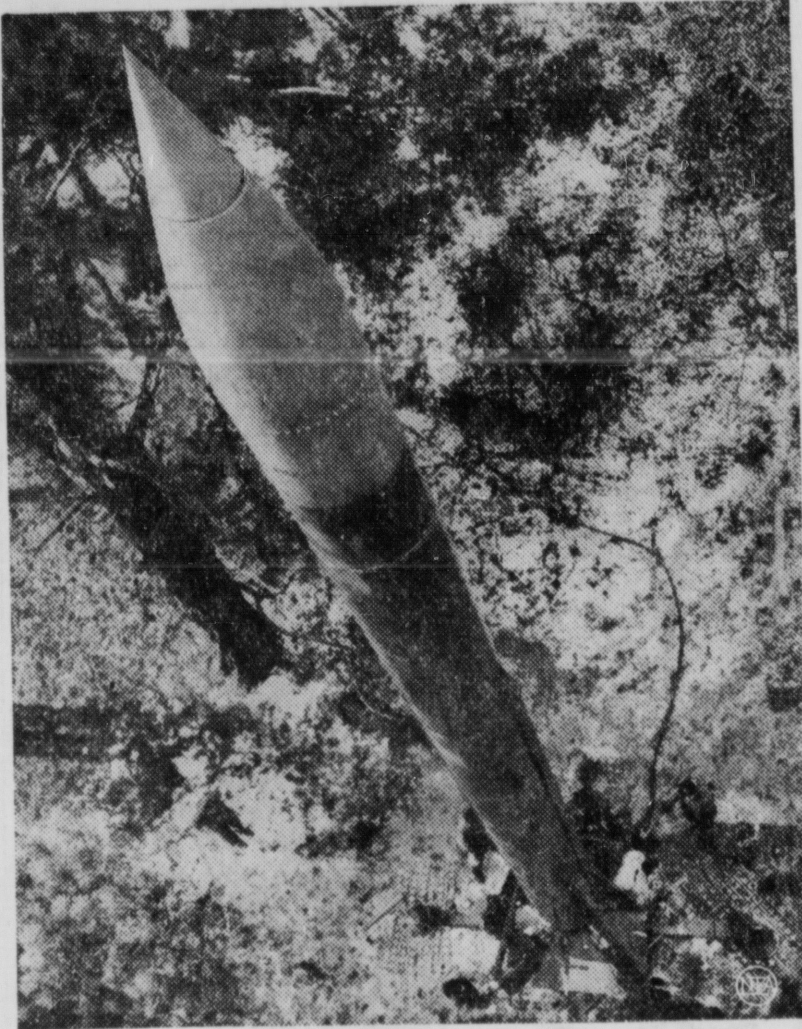

Democratic Gov. Harriman agreed the system was working. At the end of February, 170 measures had been handed him for action, compared with 52 in 1957. By mid-March, the total had climbed to 417, against barely half that—290—the previous session.

Measures passed in the final 10 working days of the session are known as 30-day bills—the governor has a month to act on them or they are dead. Earlier ones are called 10-day bills—he has 10 days to act or they become law.

Harriman's 30-day load is a lot easier this year—862—compared with 1,117 in 1957.

The system was not perfect. Late in a hectic adjournment night last Wednesday, the lawmakers were acting on a bill introduced in November.

But it was good enough to rate another go in 1959. The leaders plan to add a few refinements.

CORPORAL IN ENGLAND—Hidden away in a wood near Aldershot, England, a U.S. Corporal rocket stands ready for action after being erected by members of Britain's First Missile Regiment. It takes the entire 500 men of the regiment to fire one of the 45-foot, five-ton, atomic-warhead Corporals.

Ave, Lawmakers Argue Bill on Unemployment

ALBANY (AP)—A dispute developed today between the Harriman administration and the Legislature over a bill to give extra unemployment insurance benefits to jobless workers.

The Democratic governor said in a telegram to a congressional committee that the Legislature had refused to adopt his recommendation to lengthen the period for collecting benefits from 26 to 33 weeks.

Claims Provision Made

But a spokesman for the Legislature's Republican leadership argued that a measure passed last week in the closing days of the 1958 session would do just that—if the federal government acts.

President Eisenhower has asked Congress to approve a program to extend the period by 50 per cent. Federal funds would be made available to pay for the extra benefits. The period varies by states.

Harriman had submitted to the Legislature a bill that would extend the benefit period in New York immediately. Under terms of his measure, the state would begin the extra payments, then step aside if federal funds were made available.

Would Allow Agreement

The bill passed by the Legislature would authorize the state industrial commissioner to enter into an agreement with the federal government to make payments for the extra weeks.

Extra payments would not begin, however, unless federal funds were made available. Harriman has not signed the GOP bill but is expected to.

A Harriman aide said that the governor wanted to start the payments immediately but that under the GOP measure the state would have to wait.

Urges Prompt Action

In a telegram to the House Ways and Means Committee, Harriman urged prompt action "to meet with federal funds the needs of the hundreds of thousands of workers who are exhausting their benefits each month."

He said that, unless the federal government acted, many families would have to seek welfare relief.

Last Friday, the governor signed a bill raising the maximum weekly benefits in New York from $36 to $45.

Conservatives

were going to win. Although most non-partisan predictions were against them, the Liberals took some comfort from the fact they were heavily favored last year, when they lost. They hoped this time the Conservatives, running ahead in advance, would wind up behind.

In Canada, as in Britain, voters do not ballot directly for a prime minister but only for a member of Commons from their own district. The Prime Minister is the head of the party that wins a majority—or most of the 265 seats in Parliament's lower house.

Hopes for Majority

The Conservatives last June won 113 seats, more than any other party but 20 short of a majority. The Liberals had 106 seats, the socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation 25, the Social Credit 19 and Independents 2.

Diefenbaker after nine months of minority rule called the election in hopes of winning a clear majority, to permit his party to carry out its program. A victory probably would mean at least four or five years in power under normal circumstances.

Only the Conservatives and Liberals, with full slates of 265 candidates each and nationwide followings, have a chance to win control. The CCF fielded 169 candidates, Social Crediters 82 and other factions (or independents) 50, including 18 from the communist Labor-Progressive Party.

Adlai Says U. S. Lost Respect by Keeping Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States missed a chance at world moral leadership by not unilaterally suspending nuclear tests, says Adlai E. Stevenson.

Asked yesterday about reports that the Russians may suspend the tests on their own, Stevenson said such action "would deprive us, I'm sorry to say, of any shred of moral leadership in the matter."

"Unhappily," he added, "it would even deprive us of the hope of taking advantage of the possibility of instituting a reciprocal inspection system."

As the Democratic candidate for president, Stevenson proposed in 1956 that the United States suspend tests unilaterally.

Interviewed yesterday on NBC-TV's "Look Here," the former Illinois governor said that if the United States had followed his suggestion it would have "vastly increased, I believe our moral influence and respect among the terrified bystanders, the non-nuclear powers."

Mayor's Return To School Post Is Delayed Today

OSWEGO (AP)—Mayor Vincent A. Corsall's return to duty as a high school science teacher was delayed today, despite a court order for his reinstatement.

Corsall met with Principal Ralph M. Faust this morning and was told he could not resume his teaching assignment until official word had been received from the board.

A State Supreme Court justice has ordered the board to reinstate Corsall, who was dismissed from his teaching job Jan. 1 when he took office as mayor.

"I'll be there Monday," Corsall said Saturday when informed of the court order. "This is a victory for all teachers. It's a victory for our profession," he added.

Corsall was dismissed from his position when the school board held there was a conflict of interest between the teaching job and the mayor's post because, under the present system, the mayor appoints school board members.

Justice Eugene F. Sullivan held that the "duties of the mayor and those of a teacher in the city's public school system are quite independent of each other" and therefore "do not conflict."

In a special referendum tomorrow, the city's voters will decide whether to continue the appointive system or replace it with an elective board. Corsall has advocated the elective system.

The science teacher was elected mayor last November on the Liberal ticket, although he is registered as a Democrat.

His teaching job pays $5,500 a year and the mayorality pays $5,050 a year.

Sullivan ordered the board to pay Corsall's teaching salary retroactive to the dismissal date, Jan. 1.

The attorney for the five-member board said it would be up to the board members to decide whether they would appeal to a higher court.

Ship Jumper Caught

Paul Galanos, 25, of Andros, Greece, who allegedly jumped ship in Philadelphia, Pa., June 6, 1957, was picked up during the weekend by Highland state police. Galanos had been living in Poughkeepsie and was employed by the Rhinebeck Diner. He was turned over to immigration officials. He was picked up by Troopers Wallace Mahan and Richard Van Alstyne.

Paul Davis, 20, of Port Ewen, was admitted to Kingston Hospital late Saturday night with chest injuries suffered in a two-car collision at the intersection of Route 9W and Salem Street, Port Ewen.

Trooper Richard Van Alstyne of the Highland state police reported that Davis was proceeding east on Salem Street but failed to stop for a traffic light, striking a 1955 sedan operated by Norman Tierney, 34, of RD 3, Kingston, in the right front fender.

12,000 See Lions Show in Five Days

Approximately 12,000 persons visited the 11th annual five-day Kingston Lions Club Industrial Exposition and Home Show last week at the State Armory on Manor Avenue.

A total of 3,200 persons attended the show Saturday night.

Svirsky Cited

Lions Club officials reported to the Freeman that it was one of the most successful shows held by the club and paid special tribute to George Svirsky, vice-president of the club and chairman of the Exposition, for his "early start and professional approach."

They cited the ingenuity of exhibitors in producing displays with drawing appeal, excellent weather and good publicity as factors in the success of the event.

See Increased Service

There will be a formal report when the final figures are tabulated but early indications point to a "most rewarding financial return which will enable the Lions Club, not only to continue, but even to increase its service to the community."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 31, 1958

SHOP NOW IN KINGSTON STORES

Looking toward Washington to see what is being done about the current business decline, depression, recession or whatever one wishes to call it will not bring about the desired results we all want.

Government "remedies" have produced and will continue to bring about ever-increasing wages, ever-increasing prices and ever-increasing taxes. By sitting put and thinking that the legislators will provide a quick remedy to this situation, all of us automatically but perhaps unconsciously contribute to bringing about poor economic conditions. Let's forget about the government and do something about it ourselves.

If the recession is to be turned around, the people will do it on the local level. And they will do it by buying all the things they need and want. If you want to buy something, buy it now and if you plan to have some work done around the house or place of business, do it now.

It isn't advocated here that hard hit families spend further beyond their means or that the good old American habit of thrift be discarded. No one is obligated or should buy anything they do not need.

Our economy is based on the turnover of manufactured goods, services and dollars and Kingston merchants are cooperating by offering a multitude of articles of merchandise at prices held at the lowest possible level. You can get what you need for Easter and the Spring season in our local stores. Why not do it now?

Shopping in local stores will not only save time and money, but it will help our economic situation on a local and national front.

Rent control restrictions have been lifted from 600 luxury New York apartments. The rent had been around $500 a month, so adding a bit probably won't impose a hardship.

FEW SILVER PLATTERS

The United States Office of Education reports that about half of the nation's high school graduates eligible for college don't go to college because they cannot afford to. Dr. Fred Pinkham, president of Ripon College in Wisconsin, has commented on this report with the remark that it is "just hogwash."

The truth of the matter probably lies somewhere between these extremes. Financial barriers undoubtedly do keep a substantial number of students from going on to college. It also seems apparent that many denied higher education for this reason probably could manage if they were willing to make the necessary sacrifices.

The fact is that many young people do not receive the advantage of a college education because they don't want such an education badly enough. Though attendance at a private college may be out of the question for some students, the low tuition of most state colleges and universities places them within reach of almost everyone—almost anyone, that is, willing to work and save his money and live somewhat austere for awhile.

There also are many scholarships available, more than at any other time in history. An ambitious, determined student, even if only of little more than average scholastic ability, has a good chance to get a scholarship to help him along his way. All in all, relatively few students need be deprived of a college education. But they must seriously desire it, and be willing to work for it. Except in a few cases, it won't be handed to them on a silver platter.

A BANK OF DIRT

This was an empty lot, a low place only partly filled in. At the edge of the lot there was a bank of loose dirt. The setup, as any boy under the age of 12 would know without being told, was a natural.

There were some boys, four or five of them. They would skip and gyrate at the edge of the earth bank and then leap with wild cries down onto the slope. They would

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE GO-GETTERS

Back in the early years of the 20th Century, in the days of Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, it used to be that a type of man was regarded favorably in the United States who was known to be a "go-getter." He was an active, aggressive, forceful personality who went out into the world to build a fortune and "to get somewhere." He depended upon no security but he made friends. Most often he made the right kind of a marriage and he stuck to it.

These were terrifically hard-working people and if you want to know them, read Elbert Hubbard's "Little Journeys." Curiously few of them died of coronary occlusions, to use a frightening phrase, or from bleeding ulcers. They took work in their stride; ate big meals of heavy food; drank more beer than wine and more whiskey than gin. They smoked cigars instead of cigarettes. They went out with their own wives and when they cheated, it was shamefacedly. Their children behaved at home and were afraid of the "old man."

I was minded of those days when I read a passage in Father James Gillis' "My Last Book": "On this river," says Alice in Wonderland, "you have to row with all your might to remain where you are." So, too, in the realm of the spiritual life, we are working our way upstream. We dare not dawdle. If we rest on our oars we shall go swiftly down. We are not on a placid lake in a wood sheltered from all but the gentlest zephyrs; we are working our way up against the rapids of a tumultuous river.

If this sounds a bit like Chesterton, it is because Father Gillis could see his age in perspective. He knew that the world would not be saved by preaching at it but that one had patiently to wait until some event, some disillusionment or perhaps a miracle opened men's eyes to the frightening confusion into which we have thrown ourselves.

The scientists, whose business is learning, have begun to wonder whether education as we use the term is what in other ages used to be called learning or whether it is merely a device to keep young people out of mischief. At any rate, we have had plenty of costly education in the United States, for more than a century, and yet we are short of learned personnel. Everybody complains about that, the most recent ones being Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., Admiral Rickover, and Dr. Merle Tuve, surely men who have achieved extraordinary distinction in the world of the learned.

Some time ago, I was looking for a typist to assist a very busy young lady who has settled here permanently. So we examined a large number of young ladies all of whom had been to public school and high school and some to college. Each one of these young ladies had been in attendance at some school from 12 to 16 years, which is a very long time. But what could they have done there? One girl told me that she had attended the School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. This fascinated me, as there is no School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. Soon I had discovered that she had taken a class in art appreciation in a catch-all school for general studies which required her matriculation. But what had these girls learned?

Apparently, the scientists are bumping up against the same lack of preparation in the high schools. Dr. Killian said:

"If we are to have better science education, we must have better over-all education and if we are to have better education we must have a shift in values so that intellectual interests and performance are not played down and socially denigrated. We must cultivate in all of our education a distaste for the take-it-easy and anti-intellectual attitudes and a positive taste for what is excellent in intellect and spirit."

If we are to develop the intellectual manpower to see us through this period of great changes, we surely must pay attention to this advice. While the ability to play basketball may be a joy unto itself and stir the admiration of the gals, it will not send a Jupiter or a Vanguard through the skies or produce the practical wisdom required to pull us through a recession.

First Year Is Vital One in Care and Training of Hubby

The training a mother neglects to give a son, a wife has to put across in the first year of marriage because after that he'll claim she's "nagging."

So here are a few of the little (eventually they'll look big) lapses a wife should watch for, so that she can correct them right at the start.

Leaving the bathroom a mess, instead of shipshape, after he has had a shower. A bride of a few months may be able to laugh at the mess, but she won't laugh at it five years later, or even one or two.

Acting like a guest in his own home when the couple is entertaining. A husband who can't be bothered to play host not only throws all the work on his wife, he makes their home seem much less hospitable than it might be.

Not hanging up his clothes and putting away the things he uses. No wife enjoys, for long, following around after her husband and restoring order. No wife wants to feel like a valet.

A Gentle Ultimatum
Failing to let her know when he is going to be late to dinner, if possible, so she can delay preparing it. The first dinner that is ruined because a man didn't have the common courtesy to make a telephone call can be the last if a bride gently puts her foot down.

Hurrying his wife or sitting down and impatiently tapping his foot, instead of helping her, when there are last-minute things to be done before the couple can leave home.

Not assuming full responsibility for the man's chores around the house and yard. A husband is no more help than a child if he has to be nagged or cajoled into doing the things a man should feel are his responsibility—such as mowing the lawn, making small repairs, etc.

What a mother neglects to teach a boy, his wife can't afford to put off teaching him. Because if she lets him get by in the beginning in his new home the way he did in his old, her chances of ever changing him are too slim to count.

hit the dirt feet first and grind to a spectacular halt—unless, perchance, they slipped and rolled sideways on down the bank. Sometimes they hit sideways on purpose to take full advantage of the slope.

They also discovered that the dirt—nice, soft clods of it—could be thrown with delightful effects. So for half an hour they danced and leaped and rolled, and threw clods at one another, and in general had a whee of a time before going on to something else.

And some mothers still wonder how Johnny can get so dirty!

Washington will resume daylight saving time on April 27, thus making sure of at least one government economy.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ever since the First Lady began wearing colored stockings, all the gals in town have been blossoming out in them.

Other evening at the French Embassy there were four ladies with dark green tinted hose, four with bright red and one with lavender.

"Never saw so many rainbow gams in my life," said one male guest.

Mrs. Eisenhower has shown up with red and green hose, but her biggest supply is pink, her favorite color. She admitted to a friend that she hadn't asked the President what he thought about them yet.

"But, then he never objects to anything I wear," says Mamie.

INDIVIDUAL safes for each senator are a feature of the new Senate Office Building now being completed on Capitol Hill.

And Sen. Bob Kerr (D-Okla.), generally rated the richest man in the Senate, has been the butt of most of the gags about the strongboxes among the upper chamber solons.

Other day Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) told Kerr that he was asking the contractor to install his safe in Kerr's office.

"You've got so much money, Bob, that I figured you'd need two safes. And I'm giving you mine because I really haven't anything valuable," Douglas said. "I dunno about that," Kerr replied. "Those gags of yours need protecting. They must have great antique value."

FILM STAR Joan Crawford attended the widow's dinner the other night while her husband, Pepsi Cola President Alfred N. Steele, was enjoying the traditional stag dinner of the Gridiron Club.

It was apparent that Mrs. Steele was slightly bored with the affair. So none of the society gals at her table were surprised when she excused herself and a few minutes later sent a card back to them which said, "Excuse me, please. I will be unable to return because of an interview."

A little later one of the gals at the same table, the wife of a member of the cabinet, excused herself and sent back a note which read, "Excuse me, please. The men asked me to join them for cigars, and I accepted."

NEW SOVIET Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov's exuberant friendliness has finally backfired.

Like other Washington big shots, he's been using the tried and true technique of cocktail party survival. This is to come early, have one quick drink and dash outside before the crowd gets too big.

But Washington partygoers have found the Russian envoy so charming that they're making a point to be on hand as soon as a party starts so they will get a chance to talk to him.

Now, no matter how early he arrives, Menshikov is usually forced to shake hands and chat for at least an hour before he can go home.

A FRIEND asked Madame Ahmed Hussein, wife of the departing Arab Republic ambassador, if she thought the recent merging of the Egyptian and Syrian embassies would lead to bigger and better parties.

"I think they'll get smaller," she replied. "The new ambassador is going to be a bachelor. And in the United States it takes a woman to make a party a big success."

NOTHING is too much trouble for the State Department in its efforts to help foreign embassies throw successful parties. It always arranges for police to direct the crowded traffic at embassy receptions and often provides motorcade escorts to speed the arrival of visiting dignitaries.

But when snow blocked the road leading to the Tunisian embassy on the night of its Independence Day celebration, the protocol boys really outdid themselves.

They provided Ambassador Mongi Slim with a snow plow.

NADIM DIMECHKIE, new ambassador of Lebanon, is the most foot conscious man in town. Instead of wearing ordinary rubbers during rainy weather, he slips on a pair of specially made canvas overshoes that look as if they were tooled out of expensive suede. In fact, the overshoes are so fancy that Dimechkie doesn't even bother to take them off at parties.

He's especially delighted about another kind of footwear which he plans to add to the expensive collection. A group of Texans have promised him a pair of cowboy boots when he goes to Dallas soon to make a speech.

Synthetic Ruby Helps

Shrink Universe

NEW YORK (NEA) — A synthetic ruby is helping to shrink the universe for man.

The gem serves as the eye of an amplifying device on a Navy radio telescope in Washington. With it, for example, man can "see" Venus 10 times closer.

The amplifier is a joint project of Columbia University and the Naval Research Laboratory. It is known as a MASER. Installation was announced yesterday.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, March 30—The senators of the McClellan committee paid no attention to the unconstitutional proposition, inherent in unionism, that jobs have value as property and that they belong to the unions. The workers are permitted to work the jobs and collect the wages, always subject to union income taxes disguised as dues and fees. The unions' claim to ownership of all this property is not challenged. The committee has not even mentioned the infamous proposition, likewise inherent in unionism, that these private, arrogant buns have a constitutional power to conduct economic and administrative their own brutal, confiscatory laws, without scrutiny, to say nothing of regulation, by the public governments, national or lesser.

It is so well accepted among us now that few members of the younger generation of voters comprehend this abrogation of the rights of workers—by default of Congress, the press and both major parties. "Default" is really too kind a word for this failure. "Neglect" or "culpable failure" would be more appropriate.

The press has been the guilty of all because the press has a duty to holler up alarm at such stealthy nullifications of popular rights by shrinkage of the Constitution. The press never tires of proclaiming its own special

Soviet Drive to Halt A-Tests Seen as Power-Grab Plan

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The biggest hoax of our times is the Soviet-inspired drive to stop the testing of nuclear weapons.

Many well meaning, loyal citizens have been misled by the propaganda, and many people throughout the world have been scared about the supposed ill-effects of fallout from the tests.

Authoritative evidence has been produced again and again by reputable scientists that fallout from nuclear-weapons testing has not added any real danger. But somehow this evidence is constantly ignored, and the Soviet propaganda campaign moves on because the truth is not conspicuously displayed.

Over the weekend came a joint statement from 160 scientists gathered at Lausanne, Switzerland, there, under the auspices of the Swiss Academy of medicine, a three-day symposium was held "to determine all the long-range consequences of radioactivity." There were representatives present from the United States, France, Italy, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Norway and Switzerland. An invitation to attend was declined by Soviet scientists.

This is what the imposing group of scientists assembled in Switzerland had to say in their formal communiqué: "Thanks mainly to the extensive and painstaking research conducted in the Anglo-Saxon countries, it appears well established that the increase in atmospheric radioactivity and in radioactive fallout does not play any essential part, and does not have any practical importance when compared to natural radiation."

"The values which have been recorded do not, in any case constitute a danger to the health of mankind."

Nothing could be more explicit and reassuring. Yet this very point has been made again and again, for instance, by the National Academy of Sciences in America. But within a short time after such pronouncements are issued, there are always a few scientists who come out with rebuttals or with arguments that the layman cannot understand, but which keep the scare going. Nothing pleases Moscow more.

Might Be Prejudiced

It may or may not be significant that some of the persons in the scientific field here and abroad who hold ideological attitudes similar to the Communists are among the most ardent of the advocates of the theory that nuclear-weapons tests are highly dangerous. One of the scientists in the forefront of the agitation is a man who was refused security clearance by our government in certain research work. He may have been unjustly accused, and it may, of course, be sheer coincidence that he is arguing so vehemently against the determination made by the Atomic Energy Commission to continue testing.

The agitation is not confined to this country. West Germany is in the midst of demonstrations fomented by Communist sympathizers who want no atomic weapons supplied to NATO forces there.

Smart Propaganda

Most sensational now, however, is the plan of the Soviet government to announce that it will stop testing nuclear weapons on its own and will not ask for any international agreement before doing so. This is already hailed in some quarters here as a smart propaganda move. But are we so glibly as to applaud a policy which can be changed at will in three or six months, but which for the time being would, if concurred in here, stop some important American tests just as they are about to be made?

In this connection, it is interesting to note that Dr. Willard F. Libby, famed scientist, who is a member of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, said in a speech at the Switzerland meeting last week that a bomb had been fired underground in recent tests in Nevada and that "essentially no radioactivity, even that belonging to such a volatile material as radioactive krypton, escaped to any considerable degree."

Can Eliminate Fallout

Dr. Libby says this means "it is possible at least in certain types of weapons tests to contain and eliminate radioactive fallout." He points out, too, that "persons living at high altitudes on granite rocks always have received extra radiation many times greater than is contained in the radioactive fallout from the testing of nuclear weapons, and even those living on certain sediments receive about ten to twenty times the present fallout dose."

Despite the existence of biological hazards of one kind or another constantly affecting a small percentage of the world's population due to medical X-rays, the sun's rays and other natural causes, life has to go on. Exploratory tests are needed to advance peaceful as well as military uses of atomic energy. Testing is important moreover, because deterrent weapons have to be developed by the United States so as to keep some one-man government from suddenly plunging the world into a war that could wipe out millions of lives. If Soviet Russia could prevent the use of nuclear bombs, her conventional forces are big enough today to conquer Western Europe. So the Soviet game is to get the West to give up nuclear weapons while the Communist armies of Russia and Red China dominate Europe and Asia. (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

alarm lest this dangerous revolutionary be truly empowered by the Democratic and Republican parties to "fight for a Soviet America" as he exhorted his friends to do in his letter from Russia in the 'thirties.

It was a political ruse to drag into this watery complaint against unions a vague element of "employers" who tried to buy advantage by bribing union racketeers. What else does a business man do when cut-throats set upon him, and then the cop, personified by all varieties of government, either turns his back or helps the cut-throat? There was an example which in more honest times would have been tragic to most of us, in the conduct of the governor of Michigan who refused to permit extradition to Wisconsin of a Reuther goon who beat up innocent workers in the Kohler strike and insurrection. That, by the way, was a rare case in which a citizen-employer fought for his own rights and those of his workers against a union with a terrible record of bloody violence. Yet, the committee treated Kohler, the employer, as a defendant in a criminal case.

Of course, employers will do business with accredited fixers who can keep picket lines away from their doors. The employers did not make the bad "labor" laws, but the employer who does not do business or surrender to threats of criminal violence and sabotage will have to fight for his life.

Questions -- Answers
Q—Who is charged with blowing up the battleship Maine, the incident which provoked the Spanish-American War?
A—It has never been proved that the Spaniards blew up the warship. U. S. Army engineers raised the wreckage of the vessel in 1911 but no secrets of the explosion were found. Experts have theorized the explosion was internal.

Q—What is campanology?
A—It is the art of ringing bells in mathematical combination.

Q—What is a requirement for eligibility to be elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame?
A—Under the rules, a player must have played in a period 30 years before the voting and stopped playing five years before the election.

Q—Are there many pieces of original Chippendale furniture in existence?
A—According to one authority, there are almost no documented pieces of furniture from Thomas Chippendale's own shop.

NEW YORK (AP)—In the battle of the metals, aluminum has slugged hard — and early. Price cutting today is but one of its weapons.

Aluminum was fighting vigorously for new markets in the days when it was in short supply and old customers were standing in line. Today, spurred by the general recession and by an expanded production capacity that makes for over supply, it's eyeing new fields with what producers call confidence instead of cockiness.

Some predict that new uses will raise total consumption by 750,000 tons within the next three years. Lower prices could help. But there are some problems too. Long the darling of the airways, aluminum now is shaping up to the day when many planes will go so fast that more heat resistant metals must be used in many aircraft parts.

Bids for Ground Use

Now aluminum is making a big bid for wider use in ground transportation. It's eyeing the financially ailing railroads. With some 1,500 U. S. rail passenger cars now using aluminum, some up to 32,500 pounds each, Aluminum Ltd. is starting a big push for more use in freight cars.

It says aluminum cars would be cheaper to operate because of their lightness, which also makes for faster hauling. Also claimed are large savings in maintenance, now estimated to cost the roads 600 million dollars annually.

Here are some of the many other drives under way:

Home, Other Uses

Aluminum Co. of America and others are aiming at the home building market. Alcoa figures the average house now uses 40 pounds, believes this can be raised to 1,000 pounds. Its metal also is going into a Hi-Fi band shell built by Overly Manufacturing Co., of Greensburg, Pa., said to let full tones reach the audience with minimum of amplifying equipment.

Aluminum foil is making bigger inroads in cooking techniques and the metal is getting a foothold in the can industry. Reynolds Metals will supply 35 million quart cans for motor oil to Esso Standard Oil.

Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical has an order for 5½ million cans from a food processor. It's also building all-welded aluminum tugboats for use in shallow water and making all aluminum boxcars and gondolas.

The light metal is also fighting hard with other metals for use as curtain walls for new buildings. Capitol Products Corp. in Mechanicsburg, Pa., is launching a new drive to sell more aluminum storm windows, rolling doors and window walls.

Cost More Than Steel

Aluminum's assault on the freight car market has to fight the fact that even if the cars weigh less, the price per pound is many times that of steel. Aluminum Ltd. officials estimate the cost difference is about $3,000 per car. Its talking point is the cost savings of weight to payload. The Canadian concern says that a standard freight car weighs around 47,500 pounds, while one with a superstructure of 9,500 pounds of aluminum weighs a total of 34,000 pounds. Aluminum hopper cars now in use in Jamaica, B. W. I., have 4½ tons of aluminum, a saving of 10 tons in the over-all weight of a car.

The company says aluminum tank cars for hauling brine or chemicals long outlast other metal cars both in resistance to outside weather and to corrosive cargoes.

Acker Continues As Leader of C-H

Ernest R. Acker was re-elected president and general manager of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation Friday at the annual organization meeting of the board of directors at the Poughkeepsie general office. Acker has been president and general manager since 1932.

Officers re-elected at the meeting, in addition to Acker, were John Wilkie, vice-president and treasurer; Lelan F. Sillin Jr., vice-president and assistant general manager; and Joseph F. Furlong, secretary and assistant treasurer.

The following reappointments were made: J. Ernest Doolittle, vice-president in charge of commercial relations; Ernest E. Althouse, vice-president in charge of operations; George H. Landis, vice-president in charge of engineering; Raymond L. Aurswald, comptroller and assistant secretary; John R. Gardner, assistant vice-president; Mason H. Bigelow, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer; Henry C. Strahan, assistant treasurer and assistant secretary; Francis X. Walther, assistant comptroller, and Raymond G. ## Russia Seen Leading U. S. in Ocean Study

(Editor's Note—Whether it's for peace or war, the sea holds secrets crucial for humanity's future. How does the United States stand in this scientific quest? In this first of five articles on the ocean frontier, a New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times reporter who gathered his material at leading marine research centers spotlights the U. S.-Soviet race in a vital field.)

By EVERETT S. ALLEN

New Bedford Standard-Times

Written For The Associated Press

The United States may be losing to the Soviet Union the biggest and most important sea battle in mankind's history—the contest to unlock the ocean's secrets for use in peace or war.

Principally by default, top U.S. scientists say, American oceanography is surrendering the lead in half a dozen marine science fields to a Russia that is better equipped and spending more money on ocean study.

Better Research Vessels

Soviet research vessels are bigger, better, and newer; they spend more time at sea, accommodate more scientists, and are gathering more vital data faster than those of the United States.

Ten years ago Soviet oceanography was provincial. Today, American experts concede, it has worldwide scope and is progressing rapidly. Russia seems to have initiated a "crash program" comparable to the rocket-outer space effort that produced Sputnik.

Composite Views

These are the composite views of some of America's leading oceanographers, qualitatively among the world's best, who were interviewed by the Standard-Times to find out how the United States stands in a scientific race on which the free world's survival could hinge.

The vast importance of the sea, and efforts to learn more about it, has a military and an economic side. Barring a shooting war, the latter may prove decisive in the East-West conflict. Here are some of the major elements in the picture:

1. In the modern concept of nuclear war, the oceans provide the best hiding place for either defense or offense. The atom-powered missile sub prowling the ocean depths may play a key role if World War III should come.

Could Be Gloomy

2. Mankind appears on the threshold of weather control, in which the oceans are expected to play a prominent part. Should Russia first develop an effective technique in this field, the outlook for the West could be gloomy indeed.

As Dr. Henry G. Houghton, director of Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Laboratory of Earth Sciences says, "an unfavorable modification of our climate in the guise of a peaceful effort to improve Russia's climate could seriously weaken our economy and ability to resist."

Must Know About Effect

3. Man needs to know soon whether he can dispose at least part of poisonous radioactive wastes produced by industrial use of atomic power in the deep sea; how it would affect marine life, and whether oceanic circulation will result in too rapid a transport of dangerous material to sea levels from which food supplies are derived.

4. The world's swiftly increasing population will mean greater dependence on marine food resources. This suggests not only the need for practicable methods of large-scale "ocean farming," but also efforts to utilize some of the sea's basic foodstuffs like plankton (tiny marine animals and plants.)

Must Be 'Stirred'

5. Eventually, the sea may be artificially "stirred" to make sunshine and nutrients available in more of the ocean, thus increasing its food productivity. The French government already is experimenting with vertical pipes that shuffled bottom and surface waters by utilizing the effects of temperature differences. And there is the continuing effort to find an economic way to sweeten sea water for land irrigation use.

Hercules to Build At Bacchus, Utah For Rocket Parts

WILMINGTON, Del. — Construction of a major facility for the development and production of solid propellants for long-range rockets and missiles will get under way immediately at Bacchus, Utah, it was announced Friday by Hercules Powder Company.

Utilizing the latest methods for the casting of double-based solid propellants, the Hercules process line will be built on a 500-acre site adjacent to the 2000-acre Utah plant area where Hercules now operates one of the world's most modern commercial explosives plants.

New Division Created

"This new facility will be built to develop solid propellants suitable for use in rockets, missiles, and space vehicles in any size now contemplated," said Fred M. Hakenjos, manager of Hercules' newly created chemical propulsion division which will operate the new Bacchus facility.

Included in the new plant will be provision for research and development in design, engineering, and propellant formulation toward a goal of still greater power, reliability, and efficiency. As part of the new facility, Hercules is constructing a test bay to gather performance data on solid fuel rockets generating up to one million pounds of thrust.

"Technical know-how developed by Hercules for 45 years in propellant research, development, and production will be utilized at the new plant," Hakenjos said.

He pointed out that the primary significance of this latest move by Hercules is that the company is now constructing its own solid propellant facility, and will be able to serve any Department of Defense or civilian agency concerned with the use of rocket or missile propellants.

To Continue Program

"Since the beginning of World War 2, Hercules' efforts in the design, development, and production of rocket propellants has been concentrated in government-owned ordnance facilities," Hakenjos said. He added that the company would continue operation of the Army arsenal at Radford, Va.; Sunflower Ordnance Works, at Lawrence, Kan.; and a Navy research and development facility, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, at Cumberland, Md.

Hercules scientists developed the propellants for numerous well-known missiles, ranging from the original Bazooka through the Nike, Honest John, and the recently announced Navy Rat. The identities of some of the newer items remain classified. In recent months the efforts of Hercules scientists have succeeded in extending the frontiers of solid propellant performance to permit applications not previously feasible, Hakenjos said. The new plant will make this advancement more readily available to all of America's rocket designers.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain, Stops Itching as it Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all — results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

"I WAS A MENTAL PATIENT"

"Today more and more people are coming to realize that mental illness can happen to anyone. 16 million Americans suffer from some form of mental and emotional disturbances. Yet, with modern scientific advances in treatment, 70% of all mental patients can improve or recover completely. Not only that, but early attention to mental and emotional troubles can keep people from becoming seriously ill. Understanding our tensions will help all of us to deal more effectively with the danger signals in daily life."

If you want to know more about tensions in everyday life and how to handle them, or where to go if help is needed, send for the free booklet called "How To Deal With Your Tensions." This booklet, compiled by psychiatric experts, offers eleven simple, easy-to-follow suggestions that may help you lick expensive tensions and live a happier, fuller life. Write today to: Better Mental Health, Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

MONEY TIDES

Money tides change rapidly in America. And when they do, security prices move up and down to keep pace. Alert investors always watch the basic interest rate set by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington working in close cooperation with the 12 Federal Reserve Banks.

Six months ago—(several articles appeared in this column on "expensive" money)—the discount rate at the Reserve Banks was 3½ per cent yearly. On Nov. 10, 1957, the rate was that high. Today, at most of the Banks, it is 2¼ per cent. That is a swift reduction in so short a time.

The impact of "expensive" and "cheaper" money on security forces is terrific. Six months ago, the 3 per cent U. S. Government long-term bonds due in 1995 were selling at around $7—$870 for a $1,000 obligation of the world's most powerful nation. It was when such high grade securities were selling at big discounts that articles were written for this column about the unattractive character of Uncle Sam's bonds.

Bonds Have Appreciated
Today, these 3 per cent bonds are selling for $5—$950 for a $1,000 obligation. Thus, under this lowering of the discount rate from 2½ per cent to 2¼ per cent these bonds have appreciated nearly 10 per cent in six months. That is a big rise for U. S. Government dollar securities. My October, 1957, enthusiasm for such purchases has become deflated considerably.

Six months ago, the Government 2½ per cent bonds due on Aug. 15, 1963, were selling at about 92 cents on the dollar. As this is written, they can be sold for more than 99 cents—up $70 per $1,000 bond in half a year. They were cheap then; they aren't now.

Likewise, the non-callable preferred stocks of leading corporations like U. S. Steel, National Biscuit, International Harvester, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Rubber and Eastman Kodak have gone up sharply in price as money has become cheaper. Investors in such stocks should recognize the dangers of buying such securities at high prices if, in a few years, when money gets expensive again, and share prices fall, sales will have to be made at losses.

Cheaper money will soon permeate the mortgage field. Congress has on its agenda a big housing program. And those thousands of families who are waiting to finance homes with lower cost money should find the money available. Which leads to two suggestions: (1) the prime building stocks are now good vehicles for investment for those who want growth and fair dividends.

(2) With mortgage money cheaper and more plentiful, savings banks throughout America will have difficulty in maintaining present dividends on savings accounts.

Savings Bank Interest

To illustrate: New York City savings banks today are paying 3¼ per cent yearly on accounts. Yet those that employ the ratio to encourage savings are saying over the airways: "There's no per cent paid regular and ¼ of one per cent extra." That "extra" statement is significant. It is my opinion that if mortgage money gets much lower the present savings banks' dividend rates will not hold. They will go lower.

Cheaper money thus affects the economic fortunes of millions of people—buyers of high grade bonds and sound preferred stocks and above all, savings bank depositors.

With the Federal Reserve Banks' discount rate at 2¼ per cent, a signal is flashed to every person in America living partially or entirely on interest income. It is just this: cheap money forces such people into other avenues of investment if income is to be maintained.

And the prime avenue is the common stock field. Now is a good time for every investor requiring a yearly return of around 5 to 6 per cent to get a good list of sound common stocks paying such returns.

The Forum

(Q) "Last October, after reading one of your articles, I bought $10,000 U. S. Government 3¼ per cent bonds at $922 a $1,000 bond. They are now $1,026 a bond. Should I sell them?"

B.W.B.
(A) If you bought them for long-term investment, no. If you purchased them for capital gains, yes.

The restaurant, which has been closed since Nov. 10, 1957, when it was heavily damaged by fire, has been completely renovated, Provenzano said, and will include a new electronic stove and ventilating system. ## Both Sides Claim Credit For Action on Recession

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats say things they have done and are doing "will in all probability bring the Eisenhower administration through its second recession."

But the Republicans say that actions taken or requested by the administration itself—they mentioned 50 steps involving nine billion dollars—will have "immeasurable" impact.

Move on Purchases

Amid the political jockeying, the House moved toward passage, probably today, of an administration-sponsored bill to authorize a speed-up in purchases of 840 million dollars in civilian items for the government.

Meanwhile, members of Congress offered new recovery proposals and pushed for action on pending anti-recession legislation. There was new talk of tax cutting. Dr. Gabriel Hauge, President Eisenhower's top economic adviser, said the administration is neither for nor against a cut at this point. He said it will make its decision, perhaps in several weeks, after a broad study of how the economy is faring under the spur of recovery measures already taken.

Press for Tax Cut

But some Democrats continued to press for tax reduction soon, contending the recession will last for some time longer.

The weekend brought rival Republican and Democratic bids for voter favor on the recovery issue.

On Saturday, Senate Republican

Hercules Employee Gets IMC Post

G. ROBERT ANDERSON

A cost analyst at Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen, G. Robert Anderson, past president of the local area Industrial Management Club, was voted as Zone 4 representative at the recent fourth annual conference of Zone 4, National Council of Industrial Management Clubs at Bear Mountain Inn.

Six YMCA affiliated clubs were represented.

In his new capacity, Anderson will make official visits to clubs in the Hudson Valley for the purpose of keeping clubs informed concerning new trends in the industrial management program. He will attend area and national IMC conventions. The 1958 convention will be held in Chicago, Ill. May 2, 3 and 4.

There were 26 representatives from six different clubs in attendance. Also attending from Kingston unit was Louis H. Schaefer, executive secretary of Kingston YMCA.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market drifted lower in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks were down fractions to a point. Selected issues gained.

Chemicals, nonferrous metals, steels, motors and rails were generally lower. The chemicals presented an array of 1-point losers. Declines in the other groups were mainly fractional. Aircrafts and oils were mixed.

The opening was mixed with fairly active trading. While turnover remained at a fairly good pace there was gradual softening of prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 20 cents to $162.50 with the industrials down 30 cents, the rails down 30 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher in fairly active trading. Corporate bonds were slightly higher and U. S. government bonds were steady to slightly lower in quiet trading.

Why We Say--

STUFFED SHIRT

AMERICAN STAGE: The expression "stuffed shirt," for someone who imagines that he is more important than he actually is, was started in 1899 by American actress Fay Templeton. The epithet was thrown at another stage personality, John Gates, who was a great pretender at having wealth. It was rumored that Gates padded his shirts to aid his appearance.

Moscow's Solo

fied by the Soviet Union, who should the world place confidence in new Soviet engagements?"

No Date Is Given for Tests Halt

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today it is halting all hydrogen and atomic weapon tests but warned it will be free to resume them if the West does not follow suit.

A resolution introduced in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) asked the Cabinet to take steps to halt the tests but set no date.

"If other countries possessing hydrogen and atomic weapons continue their tests," the resolution said, "the Soviet government will be free to act in the same manner in the interests of the security of the Soviet Union."

Tremendous Applause

The long - expected announcement of the suspension was made to a joint session by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

There was tremendous applause as he announced this decision of Premier Khrushchev's new Cabinet.

When the unilateral decision became effective—once it is approved by the Supreme Soviet—and how long it would remain in effect was not immediately clear.

It was the impression of those who heard Gromyko that the ban would be applied at once.

Look to U. S., Britain

Gromyko said the Soviet Union hoped that the United States and Britain would join in the suspension of tests.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union considers itself free to end the suspension if the other powers did not join in. He did not indicate how long the Soviet Union would wait.

"We realize that ending of tests does not avert the danger of war," Gromyko told 1,378 test deputies. "When one side tests a series of bombs, the other side tries to catch up."

Ridicules U. S.

The foreign minister ridiculed U. S. claims to having produced "clean bombs" relatively free of radioactive fallout.

They write about them touchingly but all this is simply to divert people from the main problem—a choice between peace and an atomic war," he said.

"They do the same as did former President Truman, trying to justify the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They are trying to make it seem that atom bombs are for the good of the people. But this conception is alien to the interests of peace and mankind."

Says They Fear End

"The opponents of banning tests fear that this will bring an end to the production of nuclear weapons. This is the strong point of the test ban. If the test ban turns out to be a cold shower for the hawks in NATO, then that alone is a good point."

At the same session, Khrushchev appointed former Premier Nikolai Bulganin head of the Soviet state bank and announced most of Bulganin's old Cabinet members and key executives had been retained.

These included Anastas Mikoyan as first deputy premier. Gen. Ivan Serov was renamed to his old post as chairman of state security and Gromyko was reappointed foreign minister.

Would Resume Tests

Gromyko, recalling that last year the Supreme Soviet appealed for an immediate cessation of nuclear tests, said:

"If other powers possessing such weapons continue their tests the Soviet government will consider itself free to resume its tests in the interests of the security of the Soviet Union."

(The United States said Saturday it was proceeding with long scheduled tests in the Pacific despite a Soviet protest. The tests are expected late in the spring or this summer. The Soviet Union has been conducting a series of nuclear tests in Siberia.)

The foreign minister said that supplying atomic weapons to West Germany would create a threat to European security. West Germany has agreed to accept atomic weapons if offered by its partners in the Atlantic alliance. He warned that the Soviet Union would draw "the necessary conclusions" if atomic weapons were furnished to West Germany, and would take "the necessary steps."

Approve Works Projects Bill to Aid Recession

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee today approved an anti-recession bill to make a billion dollars of federal loans available for municipal public works projects.

Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark) of the committee, sponsor of the measure, said he understood the Democratic Senate leadership would call it up for floor action tomorrow.

Administration officials opposed the bill in testifying before the committee.

The first state agricultural experiment station was started in 1880 at Geneva.

PSC Approves Hike in Railroad Parlor Car Rate

ALBANY (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the Pullman Co. and the three New York State railroads that operate their own parlor cars to raise charges for daytime seating accommodations on trips within the state by 10 per cent.

The increase will be effective tomorrow. It will not apply to sleeping accommodations.

Pullman cars are operated on all passenger - carrying railroads in the state. In addition, the Delaware and Hudson, the New York Central and the Lehigh Valley railroad operate their own parlor cars on some trains.

The PSC acted after the Interstate Commerce Commission said it would allow the carriers similar increases in pullman cars used in interstate travel.

Rest on UN Trip

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—A dwindling platoon of 32 "Walkers for Peace" straggled into Norwalk today, to rest and dry out before resuming their trek to United Nations, N. Y.

They lost eight of their number during this morning's five-mile march from Westport through a dreary misty rain.

The group, including theologians, a 71-year-old woman and a 12-year-old boy, are bound for New York to protest continued nuclear tests.

Gets Law Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Murray R. Nathan, 51, of Albany was appointed today to the newly created $10,210 yearly post of administrative director in the State Law Department.

For the last 12 years he did similar work for the State Health Department.

200 Teenagers Attend Y Dance

More than 200 teen-agers attended the YMCA Youth Center dance and entertainment Saturday night.

The Strolling Five Rock and Roll Band offered music for dancing and Joseph Gilbert served as master of ceremonies. Gilbert has been in charge of setting up the program.

Others on the program were Ben Tiano, John Gallo, Fred Schoonmaker, the Schoolmates, the Dukes, the Sensations and the Sweetones.

Between the acts many sought out the game room where the facilities including ping pong, pool table, table hockey, shuffleboard and checkers were used.

The next teenage variety show and dance will be held Saturday, April 19. The next sixth, seventh and eighth grade dance will be held Friday, April 18.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the readers of this column was interested in reading about the Cantine Bridge in Marletown being taken down some half century ago and not replaced immediately so that folks then had to go a round-about-way until the new bridge was built. This reader said, it was only about three years ago, that the present bridge sunk suddenly in the middle while he was driving over it and he had to get help. All traffic was stopped until it could be made safe for traveling by lifting one part. Now they are building a new bridge there which he thought I knew about. It was pure coincidence that I ran across the item in the old newspaper.

Arthur W. Frohlich phoned me that he remembers the story on the Hudson-Fulton stamp which I described in this column but did not see an illustration of it. The reason was simple, he explained, as it was never printed by the post office. They were interested but felt it would cost too much. Even our local historian Hon. A. T. Clearwater was willing to pay for it out of his own pocket if that interesting stamp was printed but the post office department would not go along with him at the time.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

THE BRAVE RUSSIAN PEOPLE

Admiral William H. Standley, our Ambassador to Russia in 1942-43, said on the Marion Forum, "Of one thing I am positive, and that is that the democratic revolution in Russia is inevitable—and imminent."

He points out that thousands of Russian soldiers and officers joined the Freedom Fighters of Hungary in the first stages of their revolution in 1956. These soldiers had to be replaced by the Kremlin gangsters with specially indoctrinated troops.

Many, if not most, of these new troops were Mongolians from Siberia or China,—not Europeans.

It is also known that tens of thousands of Russian soldiers deserted to join the German armies when Hitler invaded Russia in 1941. They thought the Germans were coming as liberators.

Eugene Lyons, who spent years in Russia as a newspaper correspondent, in his book, "OUR SECRET ALLIES," agrees with Standley.

These views are pooh-poohed by official Washington. But Washington has been wrong before—notably in its surprise over Sputnik, of which it either knew nothing, or refused to believe what it was told.

In their struggle to be free, more Russians have gone to Siberian salt mines—under Czar, or the slave labor camps of the Reds—than any other people in modern times.

Neighbor, let us not again betray their hopes for freedom with another Summit Conference with their hated masters, as at Geneva in 1955.

MR. HUTTON

Special Series on Consolidation

Kingston's Role Under Enlarged School Plan

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on consolidation as prepared by a local committee supporting the school issue. Wednesday, April 2, voters of Kingston will go to the polls to decide the consolidation question.)

The Kingston Civic Association, in urging a negative vote on consolidation, has stated that the cost per pupil from kindergarten to 12th grade for the year 1957-58 is $179. Under consolidation for the year 1961-62 it will be $242, an increase of $63 per pupil, or 35 per cent more. This is exclusive of all state or Federal aid. So says the Civic Association.

In the first place this is partially in error. The per pupil cost for 1957-58 was $201, not $179, so the increase to 1961-62 under consolidation would be 22 per cent, not 35 per cent.

The Civic Association has implied, and Mr. Bernie Singer has stated, that this is a tax increase of 35 per cent. This absolutely is not true. It is just what it says—a per pupil cost of education borne by the district. What our Kingston Civic Association friends do not tell us is that under consolidation our enrollment would increase 76 per cent but the value of the taxable property would increase 94 per cent in six years. Now we all know that the more taxable property there is in the district the less is the burden that must be borne by any individual taxpayer. Why does the Civic Association suggest that our fair city cut itself off from an area that is having an explosive growth which would tremendously increase the property wealth of the school district and thus reduce the burden to be borne by each individual property owner?

5 REASONS WHY CONSOLIDATION SHOULD BE REJECTED BY THE TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON

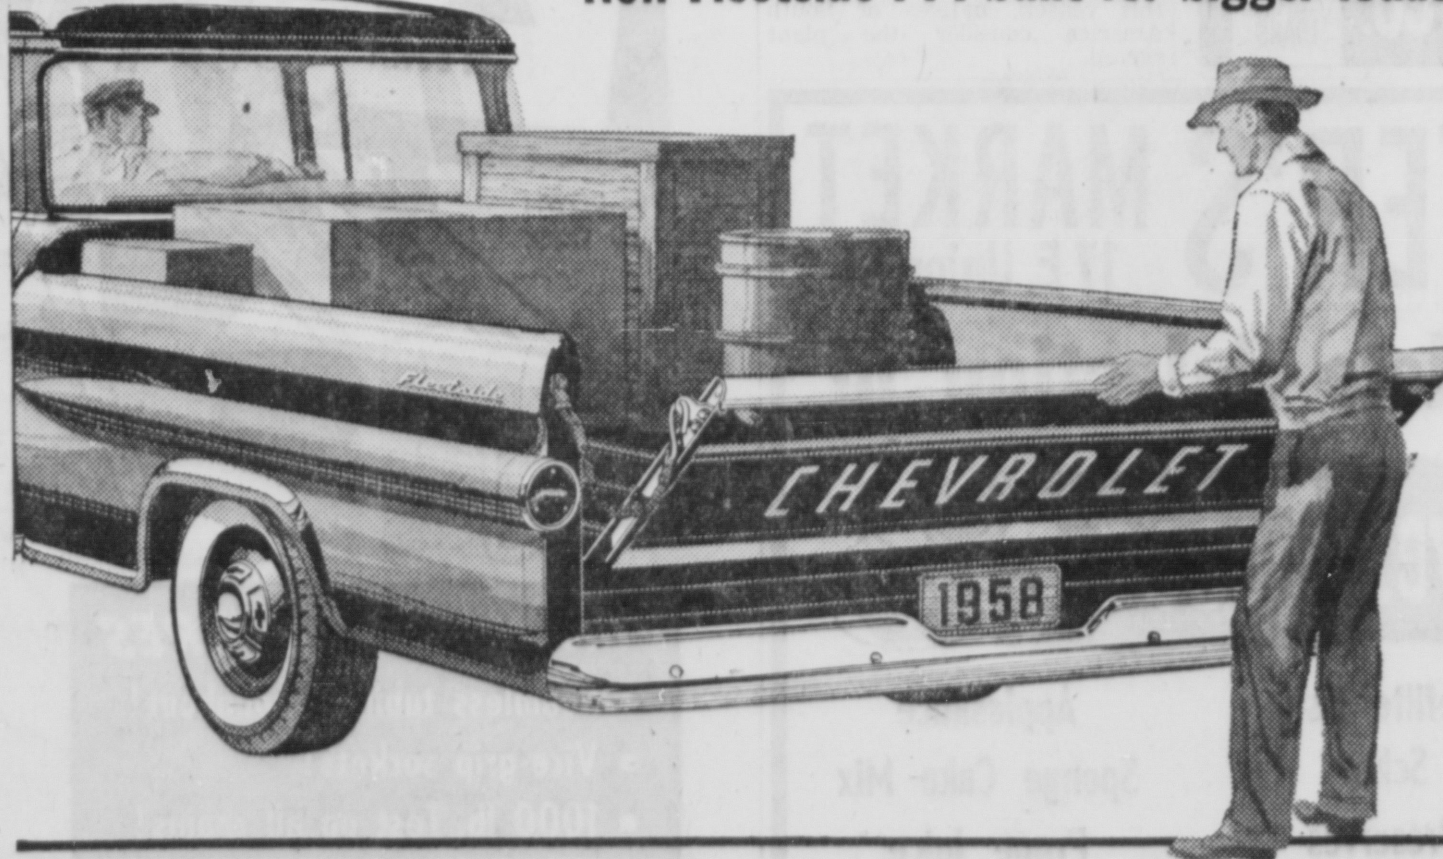

1. If we accept Consolidation, we must assume that the Department of Education will build two Junior High Schools at their estimated figure of $4,000,000, plus interest charges for twenty years $1,344,900, for a total of $5,344,900. There are also four — 1/2 million dollar bonds to be floated for additions to Elementary Schools which, with interest, amounts to $2,684,000 over a period of twenty years. This amounts to $11,094,450 that will eventually be paid by the already overburdened taxpayer of both the rural area and the City of Kingston.
2. As we all agree that the State of New York has no monies of its own, State Aid is nothing but a tax refund after an elaborate administration charge has been deducted and the balance refunded to us.
3. The officials of the Department of Education of Albany state that we will receive additional State Aid if we consolidate. The officials of the Department of Education of Kingston have said that, if we do not consolidate, we could overcome this in a period of from five to seven years.
4. There is, at present, a resolution before the State Legislature calling for a complete investigation of our State Department of Education. The State Department already has a strangle hold on our local educational systems and Consolidation is a move to increase their power.
5. If Consolidation had been in effect in the year 1956-1957, our cost for administration, supervision, teachers, nurses, dental hygienists would have cost $2,039,130. In 1961-1962 under Consolidation, it will cost $2,882,560, a total increase of $843,430.

In presenting these facts about Consolidation, we are using figures of the State Board of Education, even though in many instances, we feel that the figures are underestimated.

The Slot in the Table

By FRANK TRIPP

Somewhere once said "keep it seven years and it will come back into style," meaning an outmoded garment. But experience must be kept much longer to be useful—and never seems to come back into style.

If this column has harked far back anent our present depression it has only meant to awaken people that depressions, recessions, hard times or whatever they mean to each of us, are as periodic in history as are tough winters, hot summers and stomach-aches.

Philosophizing will not satisfy a hungry stomach but unless all Americans have sold their soul and their future upon the altar of luxury, ease, and give-aways, the thinkers among them will get something out of the truth that:

Ups and downs in our national economy cannot be eliminated by politicians, administrations, unions and do-gooders who shamefully use the hardships of the people to "throw the rascals out" and "put us rascals in." There will always be "depressions."

SOME of the people will come to admit, as they have in every past depression, that they can't eat their cake—and keep it. If I speak in clichés, it is because those who need most to hear understand trite sayings best much better than they understand the diplomats, self-seekers and double-talkers. Who doesn't?

Is there a jobless man reading this who will admit that, if he could now have the money that he was overtaxed by wasteful government or lavished upon idleness, indebtedness and luxury during our unprecedented period of high earnings, he could weather a considerable depression as an independent, self-supporting master of his own life, as did his fathers? Has he been fooled, or doesn't he care? Just fooled, let's hope.

THE MOST FOOLED are those who believe that any paternalistic give-away government (or its millionaire inventors) can extend to all men the life and luxuries of the wealthy Roosevelt or Harrimans; and their mimics, the Trumans and Eisenhoweres—disregarding the warnings of the Herbert Hoover, the Harry Byrds, et al.

Victims will learn that synthetic booms pumped high with inflated money—their money—cannot prevent depressions; that pumping in more borrowed public money is nine-tenths concern for the next election, one-tenth concern for the people. That it is a long, wasteful route by which public spending gets back to mean a job for most of them.

LET US SUPPOSE that the people could have saved as their individual own the money they were taxed to sustain this vast vote-getting political system, and the doubled prices that they paid for everything largely as a result of it.

That is what our fathers could keep; and weather depressions on their own; stayed free, independent men; sympathetic and helpful to the unfortunate among them; leaving the needy hope and pride—not mendicants beholden to their "peers."

THE TRAGIC THING involved here is that the generation has deserted belief in itself and, through its vote, has entrusted its life and earnings to a government jackpot which has a wide slot in the middle of an ermine covered table; and a million greedy hands fighting to get under the slot.

Enough mispent or wasted billions fall through that slot—or are pushed through—to save, in his taxes and cost of living, what an average man would need to thumb his nose at this puny recession; puny compared to older ones.

But the suckers have said, "You take my money; I'm incompetent to handle it. Just see that I always have higher pay, shorter hours, more luxuries. I resign my citizenship—all except my vote—but remember, I'm going to elect the phony among you who gives away the most—the hell with tomorrow." (Copyright, 1958, General Features Corp.)

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Ask most performers why they are doing this or that show or series on television and you'll be told because it's the greatest, but the greatest, Adolphe Menjou is as proud of his new anthology dramatic series, "Target," as any performer possibly could be. But he went one step farther the other day when pressed to describe the reasons that made his return to television.

"Money," he said succinctly. Thereby he won our accolade of the season for candor, a trophy more rare than an Emmy award. Everybody is in it for money, but to hear them talk it's all for art. "I'm not positive," said Menjou, who has made more than 250 motion pictures, "but I don't think I could make a living out of pictures at the moment—if I had to, which I don't. They just aren't making enough pictures these days. If they want you badly enough they'll get you, but they don't want most actors that badly."

In fairness to Menjou, however, it must be pointed out that he is currently, or was recently, visible in movie houses playing in "Paths of Glory," "The Ambassador's Daughter," "I Married A Woman" and "Bundle of Joy." Let's always keep the record straight for an honest man.

Menjou is the host and plays frequently in "Target," the new Ziv series which is appearing on TV stations in all areas of the country. Each self-contained drama is characterized, he says, by "a lot of emotion and action, whether their theme is a Western, law enforcement, crime, drama or comedy. Who is the target? It varies each week. Sometimes the villain. Sometimes the hero. As with life, it changes all the time."

As everyone knows, Menjou is one of the world's most impeccably dressed men.

The other morning, when planning to do nothing more than transact a day's normal business, he was wearing striped trousers, double-breasted vest (pardon, waistcoat), stiff white shirt, dark coat . . . yes, a tie, socks and shoes too.

When we rather awfully backed into a question about a TV host wearing "formal" or "informal" clothing he asked mildly: "Who's formal? I'm informally dressed now. I believe you're talking about television masters of ceremonies who are dressed in what I call the sloppy style. That form of dressing is a quaint old California country custom that has crept into the cities—and into television. I deplore it."

"As the host of 'Target' I step into millions of living rooms. Why should I go in sloppy? It's disrespectful and rude. We've lost a lot of the graciousness of living in this country. We've abandoned spats and canes. And look how men have abandoned wearing hats. It's disgraceful. Do you have a hat?"

"Yes, sir, right over there." "Hmmm," Menjou said. "Yes, well, I think it's wise to remember that a man feels well when he's well-dressed. It shows that he is disciplined."

Menjou, who recently turned 68 and doesn't look it, believes that the two best-dressed men performers on television are Jack Benny ("we share the same cutter") and Perry Como ("his collars are too large, but that's all right because he's a singer.")

End Play Can Win for South

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Hard Luck Joe ruffed the third diamond lead and noted casually that East discarded a spade. Joe took two rounds of trumps, cashed his ace of clubs and led a second club toward dummy. West played the queen, Joe played the king, ruffed the last diamond, and then led his last club.

East grabbed the jack and led a spade and Joe was down one, trick.

"Nice play," said Joe. "I hoped you would hold both the queen and jack for your double in which case the elimination play was sure to work."

"Chucked again," muttered North. "You had a sure thing play all the time." North was right. The sure thing was an end play against West. Joe should simply run out all his trumps and discard a spade from dummy. West would have to make four discards. One diamond and two spades would be automatic. The other discard would either be a club or a third spade.

Should West discard three spades Joe would simply drop his king with the ace. Should West discard two spades and a club, Joe would take the ace and king of clubs and lead dummy's fourth diamond, whereupon West would have to lead a spade to Joe.

This line of play would collapse if East showed up with the king of spades but that was most unlikely. West had doubled and East had stayed out of the bidding.

Judy Garland Tells Audience of Firing

NEW YORK (AP)—Judy Garland sang "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries" at a Brooklyn night club last night, told the audience she had a "terrible case of Laryngitis" and walked off the stage. "It doesn't matter anyway," she said, referring to the laryngitis, "because I've been fired."

She had appeared at the Town and Country Club more than an hour late. Ben Maksik, owner of the club, said he advanced Miss Garland $40,000 before she arrived here. The singer and her husband, Sid Luft, whom she sued for divorce March 4 in California, denied they received $40,000 from Maksik.

Ike Expected to Sign Measure

Housing Bill Is Intended To Boost Home Construction

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on the housing bill, recently passed by Congress, which President Eisenhower is expected to sign into law. It affects veterans, non veterans, and money-lenders.

It's an anti-recession step intended to boost home-building with government help. That help will take various forms but briefly these: To make it a little easier to borrow money and a little more profitable to lend it.

Congress hopes it will get 200,000 new homes started in 1958, in addition to those which would be built anyway. It may cost the government $1,850,000,000. Congress voted that much money for it.

The bill, if it becomes law, will affect mainly the operations of three government agencies dealing in housing: The Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration, and the Federal National Mortgage Assn.

Through FHA and VA the government has been insuring or guaranteeing mortgages on homes so that money-lenders, like banks, will be encouraged to keep on lending since their investment is protected by the government.

FNMA helps out in another way. But first the background on what FHA and VA do now and what the bill would enable them to do:

FHA—Now a person getting an FHA-insured loan must make a down payment of at least 3 per cent ($300) on the first $10,000 of the home's value, 15 per cent on the value between $10,000 and $16,000, and 30 per cent on what is over $16,000.

The bill will let the down payment be 3 per cent on the first $13,500, then 15 per cent between $13,500 and $16,000, and 30 per cent on what is over $16,000. The FHA will, as in the past, insure the mortgage in full.

VA—The VA guarantees loans to veterans of World War II. This program was supposed to end July 25, 1958. The bill would extend the program until July 25, 1960.

Of the 14,250,000 veterans of World War II only about 4,800,000 have taken advantage of the VA guarantee in buying a home. Congress hopes that by extending the program two years more veterans will seek VA help.

Besides guaranteeing loans that money-lenders made to veterans, the VA also made direct loans to veterans in remote areas where it was hard to borrow money. This program was supposed to end July 25, 1958. It also has been extended two years. (Note: The VA program for Korean veterans still has years to go.)

Further, home-building by war veterans under the VA program has been drying up because the VA couldn't guarantee loans on mortgages where the interest rate was higher than 4½ per cent. Money-lenders were passing up these VA-guaranteed mortgages to put their money into something giving them higher interest.

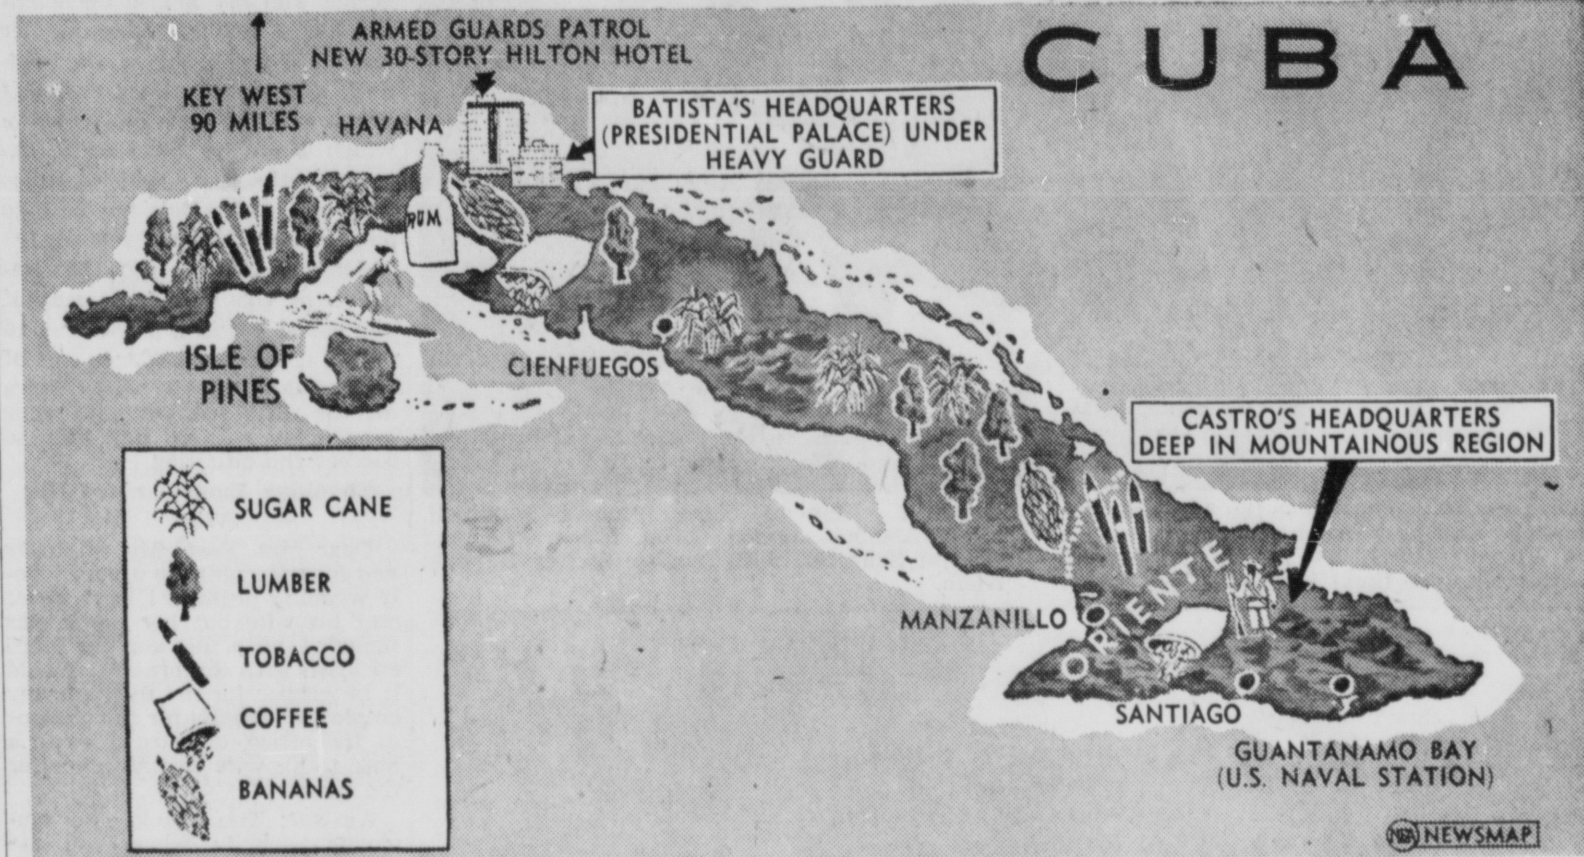

This bill authorizes the VA to guarantee home-building loans with interest up to 4½ per cent. Finally, there is the third part of the bill, affecting FNMA.

FNMA—Many a money-lender, after putting his money into an FHA or VA-supported mortgage, would like to get out of it in order to have cash to put into something he thinks more profitable.

In such a case he could go to FNMA and get his money back—up to a limit of $15,000. But he'd lose a little on the deal, both in service charges and in a slight cut in the price. This program still stands.

But to encourage the building of cheaper homes, the bill lets FNMA buy back the FHA and VA-supported mortgages up to a limit of $13,500 at their full value. So on this deal, except for service charges, a money-lender figures to lose nothing.

Tension Mounts as Showdown Nears---

Life in sugar-rich Cuba has been anything but sweet for its six million inhabitants in recent months. They have suffered through a series of scuffles between the forces of President Fulgencio Batista and rebel leader Fidel Castro for control of the government. And the present outlook is stormy. Castro has issued an ultimatum that unless Batista resigns by early April the rebels will wage "a fight to the finish." Castro warned that Batista would be overthrown by a general strike and an armed uprising.

Batista has shown no signs of yielding to the ultimatum or to demands by civic organizations that he resign. He seems determined to keep his post until Cuba's national elections, which have been postponed from June 1, to Nov. 3. Cuba, the Pearl of the Antilles, is 730 miles long, and the breadth averages 50 miles with a maximum of 160 miles. Sugar is the lifeblood of the tropical island, accounting for one-third of its national income and 75 per cent of its exports. It supplies about 40 per cent of the U. S. sugar requirements.

Real Estate Firm Will Give Trading Stamps

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—It had to happen: a local real estate firm says it will give away trading stamps with each home it sells. The announcement, by the Kenneth E. Coombs Co. pegs the stamps at roughly one for each dollar's worth of home purchased instead of the usual one stamp for each 10 cents worth bought. Thus, the firm says, a home it advertises at $29,500 is worth 30,000 trading stamps to the buyer; one asking $14,950 is worth 15,000 stamps.

Pilot's Action Credited With Saving 60 Lives

NEW YORK (AP)—A veteran pilot threw his National Airlines plane into a sudden dive yesterday to avert a collision with a twin-engine plane coming directly at him.

The quick action of Capt. Jack Guthrie, 37, was credited with probably saving the lives of 60 persons.

Guthrie told authorities he was approaching Idlewild Airport from Miami with 58 persons aboard when he saw the unidentified plane coming at him.

The veteran of 14 years flying service put the DC 6 into a sudden, baggage-jarring steep dive for about 100 feet. Some passengers were thrown out of their seats. Hand luggage fell from the racks. But no panic was reported.

"I saw it just in time to get out of the way," Guthrie said later. "Pilots see airplanes all over the sky all the time. Usually you have time for gentle turns or easy descents. This one just happened to be so close that it called for a rather quick change."

Eleven of the 53 passengers—there were four crewmen in addition to the captain—were treated for shock when the plane landed. None, however, was taken to a hospital. The other plane was assumed to be carrying two persons.

Officials of the Civil Aeronautics administration said they planned no investigation. Guthrie said he would file a report with National Airlines, adding: "There was no negligence on the part of the other pilot. It was just one of those things."

Josephine's Second

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Whooping crane Josephine did it again. She produced her second egg of the season last night.

The new avocado-seized prize aroused speculation that the world's captive whooping crane population may be hiked to seven by April 29. Josephine became famous last year when she produced two eggs and the whooper chicks survived.

There are five whoopers in captivity and 30 are known to exist.

Dragnet Question

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP)—Leon Dishlcoff and Bob Cardillo, Denver detectives, locked their squad car while here on business. When they returned, the lock wouldn't turn.

While one fished with a wire through the wing window, a highway patrolman walked up.

"I've been watching you guys for some time," he snapped. "What do you think you're up to?"

BASE FOR SAC—Added insurance for the United States in the Far East will be Kung Kuan Airfield, now under construction on the island of Formosa, about 100 miles south of the capital of Taipei (see Newsmap). To be one of the longest in the world—two and a half miles—the 25-million-dollar field will officially be operated by Chiang Kai-Shek's small, American-equipped jet air force. In practice, the USAF will be able to use its runways under terms of U.S. military agreements with Nationalist China.

Reports Licensed Bingo Will Bring State $4-Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Richards W. Hannah, chairman of the State Lottery Control Commission, says he expects the state to collect between three and four million dollars a year from the licensing of bingo games.

The licenses, although supplied by the state, will be issued by municipalities with one-half the fee of $10 per session going to the state.

Hannah made the revenues prediction yesterday in an interview on a radio program.

Hannah said he is certain that the game, recently legalized on a local option basis for charitable and other non-profit organizations, can be run without professional gamblers gaining a foothold. "We are going to investigate every operator that applies for a license," Hannah said.

"We are going to put a close scrutiny on those that we feel require a close scrutiny. We are certainly not going to put a close scrutiny on bona fide religious organizations."

Survey Says Smokers Energetic, Independent

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy smoker tends to be energetic and independent. A nonsmoker is likely to be stable, dependable and quiet.

This difference in personality is pointed out in a study of Harvard men, first as students from 1938 to 1942 and later, through questionnaires, in 1953.

Results of the study were published in the February issue of the Archives of Internal Medicine. The author is Dr. Clark W. Heath, professor of hygiene and director of health services at Tufts University, Medford, Mass.

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette," etc.

A THOUGHTLESS NEIGHBOR

Dear Mrs. Post: The houses on our street are rather close together and my next-door neighbor has a habit of shaking her rugs and mops out of the window, and all the dust and dirt comes into my bedroom windows which I always have open, except in the very cold weather. Will you please tell me how to handle this situation tactfully?

Answer: She is probably unaware of this and I am sure if you asked her in a polite way to please not shake her mop out of the window as the wind blows all the dust straight into your house, she will do her best to correct the situation.

Thanking Employer and His Wife

Dear Mrs. Post: My employer and his wife sent me a very lovely wedding present. I have never met his wife but her name was included with his on the card enclosed with the present. Would it be proper for me to thank my employer verbally for the present at the office, or must I write a note to his wife thanking her for the present?

Answer: You thank your employer verbally when you see him, and you should also write a thank-you note to Mr. and Mrs. Employer and send it to their home address.

Concerning "Informals"

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is correct to have "informals" printed Mr. and Mrs. John Jones? I have heard two different opinions of this. One said a joint informal was incorrect, and the other said it was entirely proper. I would appreciate it if you would clear up this confusion.

Answer: While not incorrect to have the cards read Mr. and Mrs., Mrs. alone is more usual because it is used mostly by the wife for every variety of short message. When necessary, it is entirely proper to write "Mr. and" in front of her name on the card.

Do you have difficulty finding words to introduce your family and friends? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However leaflet E-17, "Introductions," describes what to say when introducing and how to answer. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

4-H Club News

Ulster County 4-H Club Leaders met on Thursday evening, March 27 at the New Paltz High School and made plans for 4-H Auction at Stone Ridge Grange Hall on Saturday, April 19 for the benefit of the 4-H Club Camp Fund.

At the auction will be found purebred dairy calves contributed by some of the dairy breeders of Ulster County and sheep, geese, rabbits, ducks, chickens, pets, household furnishings such as tables, chairs, chests, davenport, coil spring mattress, radio, television, lamps, glassware, dishes, bookends, trunks, sewing machine, paintings, picture frames, garden and farm tools, some machinery both horse and power, typewriter, barbecue equipment, sports equipment, wagon wheels, plants, shrubs, apples, honey, stamps and etc.

Anyone who cares to contribute to the auction, may do so by contacting the local 4-H Club group or write the County 4-H Club Office, 74 John Street.

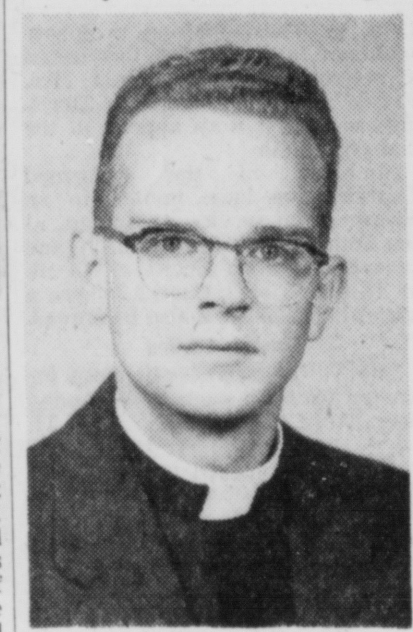

No one should miss the opportunity of coming to this auction, as in addition, there will be plenty of 4-H baked goods. There's no need to bring a lunch as the Ulster County 4-H Club Members Association will have a snack bar.

Auctioneers for this 4-H auction are A. J. DiBenio and Charles Garrison of Wallkill. All profits from this auction day, April 19, will be used to help complete the 4-H Lodge and equip the new Ulster County 4-H Club Camp at Plutarch, near New Paltz which it is hoped can be dedicated on June 29.

Ellenville Pastor Receives Call to Ruby Area Charge

An Ellenville pastor has received a call to serve Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, Ruby and Redeemer Lutheran Church, Lloyd.

The Rev. George E. Pontoppidan, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Ellenville, for nearly two years will begin his ministry in the new charge Easter Sunday with Holy Communion services at 2:30 p. m. Future Sunday services will be held at 9 a. m. at Ruby.

Replaces Crossland
He replaces the Rev. Richard I. Crossland who served the pastorate when it was part of the Saugerties charge with Atone-ment Lutheran Church.

The pastorate had been vacant since the resignation of the Rev. Mr. Crossland in September 1957. When he accepted a call to a mission church in the Bow Lake area of Seattle, Wash.

Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, Ruby and Atone-ment Church, Saugerties had been served jointly for nearly a century until the new charge between the Ruby and Lloyd congregations was formed at a special meeting held at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Kingston, February 6.

The Rev. William C. J. Weidt served at Mt. Calvary as supply minister since the vacancy occurred. The Rev. Mr. Weidt is now in Saratoga County on refugee relief work.

A native of Queens, Long Island, the Rev. Mr. Pontoppidan attended Wagner College four years and has a Liberal Arts Degree. He attended Philadelphia Seminary for three years.

He will reside in the Lloyd area and will also be ministering to Lutheran students at New Paltz State Teachers College.

Town of Esopus Cancer Workers Organized

An organizational meeting for the volunteer workers in the 1958 Cancer Crusade in the Town of Esopus was held in the Town Hall in Port Ewen recently.

Two films on cancer were shown and the speakers for the evening were Mrs. Arthur Freeman, director of the Ulster County American Cancer Society Unit, American Cancer Society, and Richard W. Griggs, co-chairman of the campaign which begins April 1.

Turncoat Returns From Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—The return of another American turncoat from Communist China aroused speculation today that more soon would follow.

LaRance Sullivan, 27, said after crossing the border yesterday that he wanted to be the first of the three Negro turncoats to go home. The former sergeant was dishonorably discharged from the U. S. Army with 20 other Americans who refused repatriation from Communist capture in Korea.

Sullivan, of Omaha, Neb., and Santa Barbara, Calif., has been described as the bitterest of the lot.

"I went to China to work and study and to add my voice to the cause of peace. I did work and study and I was very happy among a soul-stirring people, a peace-loving people, but I thought it was time to come home," he told newsmen.

India Canal Project Is Started Sunday

TALKARA JHIL, India (AP)—India has broken ground for a 160-million-dollar canal that appears certain to worsen relations with neighboring Pakistan.

India and Pakistan have gotten into an international argument over water which the canal will divert from Pakistan to irrigate 3½ million acres of India's Rajasthan Desert.

Indian Home Minister M. R. G. Pant hauled away the first bucket of earth to start the 462-mile canal yesterday. It will take 10 years to build.

Over 140 Students Of Talmud Torah At Model Seder

More than 140 students of Talmud Torah participated in a model Passover Seder conducted Sunday at the vestry hall of Congregation Agudas Achim.

Talmud Torah, a Regents-approved Hebrew School is jointly sponsored by Congregations Ahavath Israel and Agudas Achim. Families of the students were guests at the seder.

In Second Year
While the Talmud Torah, now in its second year, is sponsored by the two congregations, it welcomes all Jewish children who desire a sound Hebrew education. Now under consideration is the erection of a modern school structure, to include classroom facilities, ballroom, gymnasium and auditorium.

The Sunday model Seder was designed to acquaint the children with the ceremonies to be observed Friday and Saturday nights, when Jews throughout the world will inaugurate Passover with family Seders, commemorating the Jews' exodus from bondage in Egypt.

In charge of arrangements were Harry Fertel and Mrs. George Muller, chairmen; Mrs. Fertel, Mrs. Morton Levine, Mrs. Joseph Krosner, Mrs. Aaron Klein, Mrs. Belle Massell, Mrs. Ephraim Propp, Mrs. Al Horowitz, Mrs. Martin Garber, Mrs. Jack Epstein, Mrs. Philip Kleinman, Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein of Congregation Ahavath Israel and Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport of Congregation Agudas Achim.

Ice Shift Could Carry Antarctic Base Out to Sea

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Little America V—a U. S. Antarctic headquarters and successor of the famed Byrd bases—must be abandoned before shifting ice carries it out to sea.

Rear Adm. George Dufek, commander of Operation Deep Freeze, said crack already has appeared in the ice behind the Seabee-built camp on the mammoth Ross Sea Shelf.

If the section broke off in winter when no help could be given, Dufek warned, the camp "could go out to sea on an iceberg."

As soon as communications open next spring, he said, the Americans will begin withdrawing their scientific establishments from Little America and operations will be transferred to McMurdo Sound before next winter sets in.

It is the fifth camp to bear the historic Little America name. Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd built the original on his first expedition to the Antarctic, in 1928. Little America V is about 35 miles from the site of Byrd's original base.

6 Die in Crash

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—Six persons died in a head-on crash that injured three others yesterday. One car carried a nursing home proprietor and four elderly patients on a Sunday drive. The other bore a woman and her three children.

All the dead and injured lived at Salmon, a mountain town in east-central Idaho.

Marquis, Dancer Duel, Now Friends

PARIS (AP)—The Marquis De Cuevas and ballet master Serge Lifar were kissing cousins again today after a duel that ended with De Cuevas pinning Lifar's arm.

The 73-year-old marquis and the 52-year-old ballet master met on the field of honor outside Paris yesterday after Lifar had challenged his friend for putting on an unauthorized version of his "Black and White" ballet.

The duel lasted only a few minutes and the disputants kissed each other on the cheek, their 10-day-old feud settled according to the code of honor.

The duel, which strongly resembled a scene from somebody's ballet, was supposed to be secret since such things are illegal in France. There were 100 spectators on hand, many of them news photographers and reporters.

Dag Begins Talks With British on Red Desire for Summit

LONDON (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today began a round of confidential talks with British officials keyed to his appraisal of whether the Russians really want a summit conference and disarmament.

Arriving yesterday from a week's visit to Moscow, Hammar-skjöld said a summit meeting no doubt "would be most useful for relaxing tension." But he agreed with the Western Allies that any such meeting must be preceded by "careful preparation so as to give reasonable promise of results."

Hammarskjöld met Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd for a review of the East-West position.

Stone Ridge Man Recognized as Airman of Month

Airman First Class William R. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Robinson, Stone Ridge, has been selected outstanding "Airman of the Month" for February 1958.

Airman Robinson is an administrative clerk with Detachment 45, 613th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, AFPO 181 at an isolated radar site on an island of Northern Japan.

Airman Robinson joined the Air Force in October 1955 from the Kingston USAF Recruiting Office and has been stationed at Sampson Air Force Base, New York and Scott Air Force Base, Illinois prior to his present assignment in Japan.

He is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1954 and was employed by the State of New York National Bank prior to his entry into service. Airman Robinson will return to the states in June 1958 for reassignment after spending 16 months in the Far East.

She told newsmen that he is holding up well as he enters the fourth day of starvation, but that some of his men are getting very weak. (NEA Photo).

Tillson Church Notes

TILLSON—The choir of Tillson Reformed Church will rehearse at the church this evening at 7:15 o'clock. All members of the choir are asked to be present for this rehearsal.

Special services will be held at the church Thursday at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

A nursery for young children has been arranged in order that parents may attend church services each Sunday at 11 a. m. Qualified personnel will be in charge of the nursery. Toys are needed, and those having toys in good condition for babies or young children may contact Mrs. Ray Boyle.

Easter morning services will be held at the church next Sunday at 11 a. m. Those wishing to donate plants or flowers at this service as a memorial should contact Mrs. Ernest Hopper previous to Thursday so that it may appear in the church bulletin.

Members of the Reformed Church have been invited to an Easter dawn service at 6 a. m. at the Cottick Reformed Church, and to a special dawn service at 7 a. m. at Tillson Friends Church, where a buffet breakfast will also be served.

School Closes

The Tillson School will close for Easter vacation period Wednesday noon, April 2 and reopen April 14.

Says U. S.-Soviet Satellite Work Is About Even

WASHINGTON —Dr. John P. Hagen, head of the Navy's Project Vanguard, says he believes the American and Russian satellite programs "are going along pretty much even-Stephen at the present rate."

Dr. Richard W. Porter, another space scientist, said the United States may be ahead of Russia in one phase of satellite technology—the ability to compress scientific instruments into small vehicles.

Hagen spoke yesterday in an interview filmed for use in New York State. Porter appeared on a separate TV interview. Porter, chairman of the U. S. earth satellite panel for the International Geophysical Year, said it might take 8 to 12 months for the Russians to decode and analyze information gathered by the Sputniks. After that, Porter said, the United States is "reasonably confident" the Russians will "tell us all about it."

Makes Difference

Hops impart the characteristic flavor to ale and beer. Ale has a tarter taste than beer because it contains more hops and because of a higher degree of fermentation.

New York State ranks third in the nation as a food processor.

Tavern Men List Entertainment For April Dinner

Five acts of entertainment for the 19th annual dinner of Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, Inc., scheduled Tuesday, April 22 at the Barn, were announced today by Michael Greco, chairman.

Entertainment will include Shan Varr and Tekka, Oriental dancers; Stan Porter, baritone; Vicki Tylor, ventriloquist and Lew Menchell, master of ceremonies.

Greco said another feature of the dinner will be announced within a few days.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Failure-Predicting Parent Nags Child Out of Studying

Writes Mrs. P.: "Something's wrong with my eight-year-old's attitude to study. Though his grades are O.K., he just wriggles, twist and fools when I try to get him down to his homework. Last night I told him to spell the word 'home.' He started to sing 'Home on the Range' instead. If his attitude doesn't change, he'll drop out of school as soon as he can."

Oh? And what crystal ball presented this vision of her child's future to Mrs. P.?

I think, Mrs. P., that you expected your son to misspell the word "home." I think he knew this—and that it made him so mad he refused to spell it correctly for you. However, he dared not misspell it lest his failure attract more of your anxious pressure. I think that singing "Home on the Range" was a resourceful solution to his dilemma.

Let's be truthful. You didn't expect him to spell the word right, did you?

Matter of FACT

The name "America" was first applied to the southern continent when, in 1507, an old map maker gave the name to a large section of that continent in honor of Amerigo Vesputi, an Italian who had explored and written about the region. Later, the name was applied to all the land in the Western Hemisphere.

© Britannica Jr. Encyclopedia

Now I've a little piece of information for you. Asked what they most need to study lessons, children of all ages have said "Quiet."

We do not give quiet to a child when we fill the room where he is trying to learn his lessons with our agitated expectations that he'll fail to get them. We give him noise and clamor.

If he is only eight years old, we disturb him badly, for he's still pretty uncertain of his competence. As we sit beside him anxiously demanding proof of it, we add the burden of our uncertainty to his. Under these circumstances, he'll begin to wriggle and twist.

The truth is, he wants to take flight from our suspicious, discouraging presence.

Secretly, we want to run away from him too.

That is because we cannot love a child whose success we feel obliged to guarantee.

We can only fear him as the person who may let us down. If we don't reject the impossible obligation we've assumed, we'll begin to dislike him. We'll start expecting him to fail because we really wish him to fail.

This is a natural wish—the inevitable result of our exhausting task. Our dislike of the child is really just our dislike of the obligation to make him a success. Our wish for his failure is our healthy protest against the unhealthy obligation.

the Daily Newspaper gives you more for your advertising dollar

1. Newspaper advertising reaches more people than any other medium. 88% of the nation's families get a newspaper every day. Over 100 million people, 82% of all people 12 years of age and over, read a newspaper on an average day. Every one of these people has the opportunity to see every ad in the daily newspaper. Only a small number of these people could be reached with any TV, radio or magazine ad.

2. People like advertising in newspapers better than in any other medium. People feel friendly toward advertising in newspapers. Surveys show that far fewer people want advertising in other media. An advertiser wants his customers to like him, so it stands to reason he will benefit if he runs his ads where they please instead of annoy people.

3. Newspapers deliver more "ready to buy" prospects than any other medium. Newspapers offer something for everybody—information, entertainment, editorials, advertising. And the reader is attracted to the ad that interests him. This means that readership ratings on ads represent live prospects for the advertiser. These people are easy to sell because they have a product interest. On the other hand broadcast ratings indicate people with an interest in the program, not necessarily a buying interest in the product.

4. Newspaper advertising gets more action than any other medium. As a news medium, the daily newspaper gives advertising an atmosphere of action and believability. People have confidence in and believe in newspapers. This prompts action on the part of the reader.

5. Newspaper advertising offers more local selling flexibility than any other medium. Advertisers can use newspapers market-by-market—to protect strong markets, to bolster weak markets, to vary advertising where potential varies, to meet competitive attacks, to get better timing with their sales and merchandising programs than is possible in any other medium.

6. Newspapers give more flexibility in selling copy than any other medium. An advertiser can tell his story in the size that suits his needs. He can use a two-page spread to tell a detailed copy story, or he can tell his story in the same or smaller space with just a few words. He can run a 100-line or a 1,000-line ad, depending on his budget and strategy. A newspaper offers advertisers more physical and creative flexibility than any other medium.

7. Newspaper advertising offers better retail merchandising than any other advertising. Four million U. S. retailers invest about 2½ billion dollars in the daily newspaper—more than they spend in all other media combined. No other medium has as close a relationship with retailers as the daily newspaper.

8. Newspaper advertising is a safer and surer investment than advertising in any other medium. In some media a good percentage of the results are affected by the variables of the medium, and by the medium's own competition. In newspapers, the advertising stands on its own feet, unaffected by such variables. Newspaper advertising is always ready and waiting, to suit the time, place and pleasure of the consumer. The daily newspaper is always selling.

9. Newspaper advertising produces more sales per dollar of advertising cost than do other media. The cost of an advertising medium depends on a combination of two things: First, how much it costs to reach a person with a sales story. Second, what action that sales story causes the person to take—or, how much it costs to make a sale. The best figures available indicate that the newspaper delivers a message to a person for a typical advertiser at a cost at least as low as the cost of delivering the message through television or magazines. And the other eight points guarantee more sales action per message delivered.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Whoever said "nothing ever changes" must have had his head stuck in a barrel.

Anyone who has his head out of a barrel knows just the opposite is true: everything is always changing. As soon as you get used to something, you find it is different. What was near and familiar a moment . . . a month . . . a year ago . . . is now strange and far away and long ago.

Every tomorrow becomes a yesterday, linked to today only by the magic bridge of memory.

For example, remember when: As a kid, what fun it was to go out at night and watch for falling stars . . . instead of falling rockets?

A woman didn't feel well dressed unless she had a silver fox fur grapping her by the throat?

A fat man was regarded as jolly not frustrated?

Small boys wore long black stockings . . . instead of teenage girls trying to look like ballet dancers?

What the country needed most was just a good five-cent cigar?

You opened a package of breakfast cereal and threw the box top away . . . because there wasn't anybody to mail it to who wanted to send you something back for it?

A woman's place was in the kitchen, and a man helped with the dishes only if he was a visiting relative and unemployed?

Everybody was mad because the dollar was worth only 54 cents? (What's it worth now?)

People went to cocktail parties just for fun?

Bars served every fourth drink on the house . . . and if you tipped the bartender it was a sure sign you were from out of town?

The soprano in an opera had to have a foreign accent and outweigh the tenor or her voice was no good?

The only people who went on diets were those who were in bed sick?

The only places you could see wall-to-wall carpeting were in the movie lobbies and funeral parlors?

You could buy something in a dime store for a dime?

A man didn't have to waste his youth and strength lighting cigarettes for women . . . because no nice girl smoked—at least not in public?

The most popular girl in the neighborhood was the one who could cook the best fudge?

A guest who didn't ask for a toothpick after dinner was felt to be criticizing the food?

A criminal was regarded as someone who had erred against society . . . not as someone society had "wronged"?

A boy was given a big pocket watch as a sign he had reached manhood . . . and anyone who wore a wrist watch was a sissy?

Long before blue suede shoes and the era of the gutter dandy, a real dude wore spats?

A girl risked her good name if she rode behind a boy on a motorcycle?

No careful housekeeper thought it neat to leave the same piece of flypaper hanging from the kitchen ceiling more than two days in a row?

Young people courted alone on a front porch swing . . . instead of at a public drive-in theater?

(Dear reader: If you have some favorite "remember when" items of your own, mail them to Hal Boyle, care of this newspaper, for more trips down memory lane.)

Tax Reduction Guides Are Listed For Businesses

ALBANY — The State Tax Commission has issued official instructions to unincorporated business taxpayers for applying the newly enacted reduction on their 1957 tax returns due April 15.

Governor Harriman signed the unincorporated business tax reduction bill Tuesday. It will save 77,000 business taxpayers an estimated $1,700,000 by allowing a reduction of 15 per cent of the first $100 of unincorporated business tax and 10 per cent on the next $200. The maximum cut is $35.

List Instructions

Tax Commission President George M. Bragalin issued these instructions to the unincorporated business taxpayers:

Enter the gross amount of unincorporated business tax (as computed on Form IT-202) in line 18, page 1, Form IT-201.

Figure the reduction of 15 per cent on the first $100 and 10 per cent on the next $200 on a separate sheet of paper.

Enter the amount of reduction in line 18a and the net amount of tax in line 18b. Add this to the normal income tax entered in line 17b (which is the same amount reported at line 17) and enter the total tax in line 19b.

New York City has about 100 skyscrapers of 30 stories or more.

Costly Prank

He does not mention what lubricant to use with it, but we know he had a weakness for goose grease. Mixed with ovis' brains, it was the very thing for closing a wound.

Adequate Federal Funds for Public Works: Keating

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some governors—specifically Gov. Harriman of New York—should stop “weeping and wailing” about a so-called lack of federal funds for public works, Rep. Keating (R-NY) says.

Keating, asserting that 3½ billion dollars in federal aid is available to the states for highway construction alone, said yesterday “something like two billion dollars has not even been programmed for use on any project.”

Use of ‘Crying Towel’
“It is deplorable,” he said, “that there is so much use of the crying towel in the states about lack of funds when vast sums of money lie around gathering dust in state vaults.”

“Instead of weeping and wailing about the alleged lack of action in Washington, some of these harbingers of gloom and doom would do well to dry their eyes, take a good look in their own backyard, and use this frenetic energy to some good purpose.”

Without mentioning Harriman by name, Keating then took aim on the governor of New York.

Keating said New York had over 162 million dollars that could be used “when and if” Harriman flashed the green light. Keating said 32 of the 162 million dollars was being processed in Washington for project requests.

“That means,” he said, “that 130 million of that 162 million dollars is not being used because the state government has not so much as planned how to use it.”

Purchasing Power Is Lower in 1957

NEW YORK (AP)—The purchasing power of New York State's manufacturing workers is reported to have been almost one-half billion dollars lower in 1957 than in 1956.

Unemployment insurance benefits and higher wage rates helped offset the decline.

The picture is given in an article in the April issue of the Industrial Bulletin, official publication of the State Labor Department.

The gross decline in manufacturing payrolls, adjusted for price changes, was 647 million dollars in 1957 as compared with the fourth quarter of 1956 on an annual basis. This figure did not take into account unemployment insurance benefits or increased hourly earnings.

Of the gross loss, 330 millions was attributed to wages lost because of unemployment, 148 millions to reductions in work weeks and 169 millions to the increased cost of living.

The net loss in purchasing power was reported as 422 millions. The gross loss was cut to this figure by an increase of 168½ million dollars in factory payrolls and an increase of 56 millions in unemployment insurance payments.

The article said the estimates of the drop in purchasing power were “conservative.”

The total 1956 and 1957 purchasing powers were not given in the Labor Department announcement.

Earnings Decline

NIAGARA FALLS (AP)—The Hooker Electrochemical Co. reports earnings of $1,654,900 for the quarter ended Feb. 28, a decline of 23 per cent from $2,300,100 in the same period last year.

The company said Saturday earnings per share dropped from 35 to 27 cents.

Net sales for the period were $23,055,100, compared with $25,864,800 last year.

Dies at 102

BOONVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Mary Dickhaut, 102, died at her home here Saturday.

Matter of FACT

The 15th president of the United States, James Buchanan, was the only chief executive to remain a bachelor throughout his term. True to the memory of his fiancée, who died when he was a young man, Buchanan never married. His niece, Harriet Lane, presided as mistress of the White House during the four years of his administration.

Question-Answer On Consolidation

Some voters have wondered if under consolidation the elected Board of Education would be paid for their services as members of the Board. These voters realize that the present Board of Education serves entirely on a voluntary basis.

Under Consolidation the elected Board of Education would NOT receive a salary. They would serve on a voluntary basis in the same manner as the present Board of Education.

Woman Held in Death Of Upstate Worker

BINGHAMTON (AP)—A charge of first-degree manslaughter has been filed against Mrs. Paulina M. Barton, 48, who police say stabbed a 40-year-old construction worker to death with a kitchen knife.

Pearl Harmon was stabbed twice in the chest during an argument over preparation of a meal Saturday night, police reported. The couple, both Negroes, had been living together, according to police.

Mrs. Barton pleaded innocent to the manslaughter charge at arraignment yesterday in City Police Court. She was held for grand jury action.

Caruso's Insurance and Morgan Fuel Clash in Tourney Tonight

Kingston Stars Lose, 86-81 to Stamford K-C

Stamford K of C fought off a strong last period bid by the Kingston Stars and moved into the semi-finals of the Kingston Invitational tournament last night with an 86-81 victory in Municipal Auditorium.

The Stars, paced by George Carpouzis, Bob Smith and Bill DuBois, fought back valiantly after trailing 67 to 45 at the start of the final period, but the lead was too much to overcome.

Performing brilliantly, the Knights' Jack Smyth was a stickout in the Nutmeggers big win. He scored 30 points with an exhibition of dazzling speed and shooting accuracy which has offset any previous individual performance.

The Knights will meet the winner of Wednesday night's clash between Economy Cleaners of Newburgh and the Pine Plains Bombardiers. The other contest that night will be between Byrne Chevrolet and Van Voorhis Lumber. That winner will take on the victor of the Caruso Insurance, Morgan Fuel contest tonight.

The Stars took a 22-21 first period lead, but were 43 to 36 down at the intermission. A dismal third stanza cost them the contest. They tallied only nine points against the visitors' 24. Carpouzis dunked 24 points, but it was not enough to keep his club in the running.

The semi-finals will be staged Thursday night starting at 7:15 o'clock. The winner of the Byrne-Van Voorhis tilt will meet the team which triumphs in tonight's Caruso-Morgan Fuel encounter, and Stamford takes on the Economy Cleaners-Pine Plains winner in the nightcap.

Carol Heiss Jenkins Keep Skate Title

MINNEAPOLIS — Carol Heiss and Dave Jenkins had an even tighter hold on their world figure skating supremacy today.

Miss Heiss, the bubbly and attractive 18-year-old college coed from Ozone Park, N. Y., repeated as women's national champion Saturday night by a miles-ahead margin over four rivals. Jenkins retained his national crown Friday night.

The two champions have reached such a high stage of excellence, said skating coach Ed Scholdan, that for the next year or so, at least, they may be unbeatable.

"Because figure skating is developing greater skills all the time, David and Carol probably are the greatest amateur figure skaters who ever lived," said the Austrian-born instructor, who is Jenkins' coach.

Giraffes are completely voiceless, but giraffe mothers can make a whistling sound to call their youngsters.

New York-NJ Baseball Loop Meets April 13

Plans for the 1958 New York-New Jersey Baseball League will be mapped at a meeting April 13 at Perruna's restaurant, Spring Valley, according to league president Charles J. Tiano.

One of the league's big problems will be to bring the circuit up to the eight-team standard. There are currently seven teams in the loop, an opening existing as the result of Newburgh's withdrawal. The teams are Saugerties, Staatsburg, Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Spring Valley and Kingston.

Before issuing the existing franchise, the league will determine the financial structure of the application and act accordingly.

Teams seeking entrance are asked to contact John Babiarz, Poughkeepsie, league secretary. The deadline is April 10.

Albany Spring Golf Show at Ten Eyck May 12

ALBANY — The second annual Spring Golf Show of the Northeastern New York PGA, to be held May 12 at the Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany, will present Jimmy Thomson, for years the longest hitter in golf, as feature speaker.

In addition to Thomson and Bill Kaiser, former Kentucky Open champion and well-known touring pro, Chairman Bob Smith of Wolferts Roost is arranging for appearance of many of Eastern New York's golf notables at the dinner, expected to attract a capacity crowd of 450 persons.

There will be some 25 exhibits of golf merchandise by leading manufacturers and free tips for players from district pros.

Thomson long has been recognized as a fabulous hitter of the golf ball. The stocky native of Scotland, while pro at famous Broadmoor C. C., Colorado Springs, drove the 380-yard 18th hole eight times. He averaged 340 yards for 10 balls while winning the North American driving championship at Niagara Falls and has amazed links followers with wallops in excess of 400 yards on many occasions. Thomson also has been runner-up in US Open and National PGA championships.

The day-long golf show was inaugurated last year when Ed (Porky) Oliver entertained as feature speaker of an attractive program.

Northeastern New York PGA members have tickets for the event.

Boating Line

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

With the boating season approaching throughout the country, now is a good time for a quick review of rules governing the way boats should be piloted.

These regulations are in effect: Passing head, on keep to the right, but if you are so far to the left of the approaching boat as to make it impractical to swing to the right, hold your course. In doubt, slow down or stop.

Passing from the rear, you pass on either side, but be sure to give the boat ahead plenty of leeway. He has the right of way. Don't try to pass until it's safe. Crossing at right angles, the boat on the right has the right of way. It's against the law to block navigation channels anchoring. Sailboats have the right of way in the majority of instances over power boats.

Rules may be broken legally if departure from them is needed to avert a collision.

Make any kind of a distress signal that will attract attention.

Horn or whistle signals signify to another boat your intentions.

They are to be used only when necessary.

One blast signifies your intention to go starboard, two to go port. Passings from behind one blast means you want to pass to the right, two on the left. Five or more short, rapid blasts is the danger signal. When you answer a signal you signify you understand it. Always answer with the signal given. In doubt give the danger signal.

In fog, snow or mist, proceed slowly and give one long blast every minute. Anchored in fog, strike the bell rapidly at sufficient intervals.

Saugerties Club To Plant Over 5,000 State Trout

Saugerties Fish and Game Club will distribute over 5,000 brown trout to arrive from the State Conservation Department hatchery Wednesday at 12 noon.

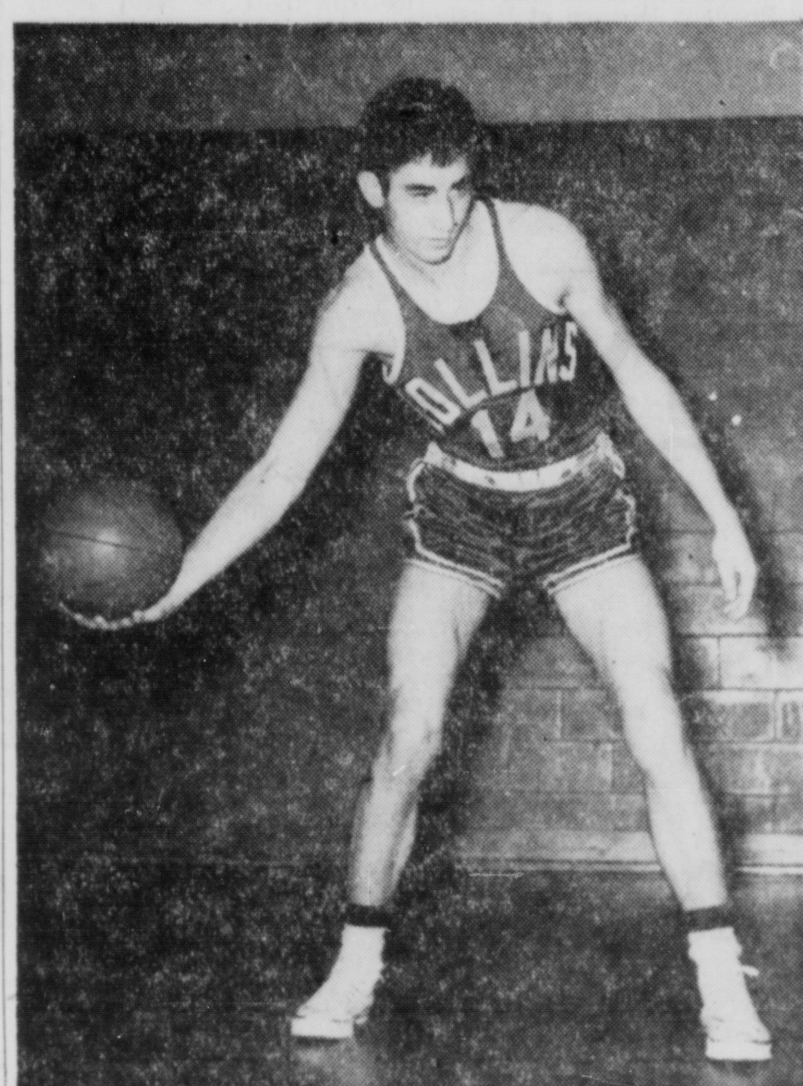

According to Arthur Sperl, fish committee chairman the consignment from the hatchery will arrive at Saugerties Municipal Building. Members of the club will meet there and distribute the trout in the Plattekill Creek.

Sperl said a total of 5,076 trout, some of which will be legal size, are expected to arrive in the shipment.

At the April meeting the club authorized the purchase of 1,000 legal size trout for planting in Saugerties area streams.

Dick Bezemer Named NAIA All-American

1,863 Pins Leads Scratch All-Event

NIAGARA FALLS — The all-events scratch lead in the State Men's Bowling tournament belonged to Tom Maryjanowski today. He topped 1,863 pins over the weekend.

The other scratch leaders stayed the same after three weekends of the tournament, which ends May 29.

Zablotnys of Buffalo holds the team lead with 2,875; Chuck Rodica and Jim Moses of Buffalo lead the doubles with 1,263; and Joe De Fazio of Canastota is tops in the singles with 671.

In the handicap standings Earl Town of Silver Creek scored 2,043 to take over the all-events lead. Steve Minarik and Steve Jr. of Rochester came up with 1,400 for the doubles lead and Jerry Florack of Rochester took the singles lead with 756.

Mike and Nats of Camillus still are on top of the team standings with a score of 3,211. About 2,400 teams are expected to roll in the tourney.

Dick Bezemer, star center for the Rollins Tars for the past four seasons, yesterday was named to the NAIA All-American squad.

Bezemer, the first from Rollins to receive this honor, also was all-state for four years, the only player ever to have made the honor team for four consecutive years.

In addition, the former Kingston standout, was all-FIBC for three years that league functioned. He was the top scorer and rebounder for the Tars during each of his four seasons at the Winter Park school. He also was named to the all-opponent squad of five schools Rollins faced during the past season.

In conference play, Bezemer scored the most points in one game—47, to set the season record for the FIBC. He also had the highest percentage of free throws made in 40 or more attempts, having shot, 828. He was fifth in the conference in scoring, averaging 16.7 points per game.

An outstanding student, he received the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award last term for scholastic achievement.

Another Masters and That Man Hogan Is Back as Hot as Ever

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (NEA) — Another Masters and that man is back. The man is, of course, Ben Hogan, the winningest Irishman ever to come out of Dublin, Tex., launching his drive for an unprecedented fifth U. S. Open championship.

Although in his 46th year, Hogan is the man to beat in the 22nd Masters over the Augusta National's gorgeous 70 acres in what could be one of this aristocratic tournament's greatest editions ending with a fourth 18-hole round on Easter Sunday. It will be the same story in the U. S. Open over Tulsa's Southern Hills, June 12-14.

In his first tournament since last summer, Hogan shot 69-71-140 to be beaten by a single stroke in the Seminole Pro-Amateur at Palm Beach. It doesn't take the Little Man—he's bigger than they say—long to get back on the ball.

All the top names are invited to the Masters and members of the Old Guard, headed by Gene Sarazen, come back for Old Home Week.

Doug Ford is the defending champion.

This production is richer in international flavor than any preceding one. Stylish shotmakers from foreign lands are Peter Thomson of Australia, South Africa's Gary Player, Argentina's Roberto de Vincenzo and Antonio Cedra, Japan's Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono and Canada's Al Balding and Stan Leonard.

The wee Nakamura and Ono attracted world wide attention in Tokyo last October when they won the Canada Cup from Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret and Nakamura bagged the International Golf Association crown by seven strokes with 274.

The field is cut to the top 40 and ties after 36 holes. Hogan and Dr. Cary Middlecoff didn't qualify for the stretch run a year ago, giving you an idea of what can happen over the Augusta National, where the margin of error is so large on a missed shot.

THE STANDARD TEST is such a one that a star may approach the last five holes with a chance to take it all and wind up 10th. Jackie Burke made up a deficit of eight on the final day in 1956 to edge Ken Venturi, when the then amateur blew himself to an 80.

Incidentally, this show has never been won by a simon-pure and Venturi returns this trip as the hottest playing professional on the winter circuit.

Masters officials are of the opinion that Hogan achieved the best 72-hole stretch of golf ever played by anyone anywhere when he broke the tournament record by five shots in 1953 with 274. Hogan, then at the peak of his precision game, took full advantage of favorable weather and scoring conditions. Burke's 289 in 1956 is the highest winning Masters score.

THE ONLY SLIGHT CHANGE in the magnificent course from last year is that the eighth green is the regular and not a temporary one.

Bridges were to be unveiled receding past feats by Hogan and Byron Nelson. The Hogan bridge leads to the 12th green, the Nelson is next to the 13th tee.

The average length of the course, depending on the placement of markers and pins, is about 6,850 yards. Par is 36-36-72.

And as you walk down the flowery and tall pine tree-lined Augusta National fairways you quickly realize why this is the favorite course of President Eisenhower and a lot of other people.

What a place to spend an Easter Sunday afternoon!

Wimpy's Rally Defeats Harry's Angels, 94-87

Wimpy's No. 1 advanced a step further to the YMCA basketball championship with its second straight win over Harry's Angels Saturday night in the YMCA. The score was 94 to 87. In the curtain raiser, Saugerties downed Minute Car Wash 51 to 46.

It was the combination of Frank Koenig, Ronnie Scheffel and Bud Smith which turned the tide against the determined Angels. The setback wasn't as convincing as the initial meeting of the teams, but a spurt in the last five minutes told the tale.

The Angels led by George Carpouzis' 36 points, surged ahead 67 to 65 at the start of the final period, but they were unable to fight off the triple-threat attack of Koenig, Scheffel and Bud Smith.

Harry's was playing without Andy Juhl who suffered a severe injury in another contest and was replaced by Dick Terlingen. The lead see-sawed in the final period, but it was some good foul shooting by Scheffel which made the difference. He earned seven of eight on drivings. Molly Leonard turned in an exceptional game of the winners on defense and scored 11 points.

The third game will be played Tuesday night, Backs and Boulevard Gulf will clash in the opener at 7 o'clock. All other action is postponed because of Easter.

Phillips Pin Squad Leads ABC Tourney

SYRACUSE — The Phillips Equipment team of Harrisburg, Pa., today stood at the top of the open division of the 55th American Bowling Congress Tournament.

The team got off to a torrid start with games of 965 and 1068 yesterday but faltered with a 912 finale for a three-game series of 2945.

Reggy Seavey, a 43-year-old AAA Motor Club assistant manager, anchored the club with a 207-204-214-625 series.

The top spot in the booster division is occupied by Jerry's Sunoco team of Cuylerville, which shot a 2678 Saturday.

Fred Gioia of Rochester claimed the lead in both the singles and all-events division. Gioia, who averaged only 170 in league play, broke loose with a 235-210-230-675 series in the singles. This brought his accumulation for the entire nine-game route to 1819, the highest all-events total for the two-day-old tournament.

Jim Morrison and John Fortin, of Brooklyn, established themselves as the early two-man team leaders by collaborating for a 1257 total. Morrison contributed 648 to Fortin's 609.

Rochester Wrestlers Cop AAU Tournament

ROCHESTER — A Rochester wrestling team has won the 24th annual Niagara Assn. Senior AAU tournament.

Rochester Tech scored 63 points, 16 more than second-place Ithaca grapplers. The Windsor Olympics had 43 and the Gardner Grapplers of Syracuse 20. The two-day tournament ended Saturday.

John Harvard, founder of Harvard University, died in 1633 of tuberculosis, two months after college classes began.

'5 Merchants Drop Five Games in HVBL

The Five Merchants hit the skids in a pair of Hudson Valley bowling matches over the weekend. They dropped three Saturday night to Channel Master and lost two the preceding night to Liberty.

Saccaman's Jewelers took two from Shanahan's Construction in another HVL encounter Saturday night as the loop goes into its final two weeks of play.

Bob Nelson crashed 677 for Liberty on games of 207, 276 and 194, while Tom Amato was the big gun for the Merchants with a 600 average against Triangle Diner and 613 against Channel. Amato just missed a 204 triplicate. In the last game he needed six pins for the feat. He went for it but seven pins toppled.

Rose Schatzel's 1697 Second in State All-Events Division

Falls Short in Effort To Overtake Leader

Rose Schatzel, Hudson Valley bowling queen, just missed taking the lead in the all-events division of the State Woman's Bowling tournament in Schenectady over the weekend, but her 1697 may be good enough to stand for second place.

Mary Plunkett of Buffalo rolled a classic 1728 score two weeks ago, which may stand and dethrone the three-time winner of the event.

Splits Hurt

Mrs. Schatzel, defending her crown, needed a 602 in the team event yesterday to displace the Buffalo kegler, but she came up with a 570 on games of 177, 212 and 181. Three splits in the first game reduced her chances of hitting her set goal.

She crashed 548 in the doubles with Nellie Alverson and 579 in the singles on Saturday.

In the team event, the Manhattan Bowling Ball quintet, finished in the money with a 2468 score.

In the Class A doubles, Joan Streck and Skip Oliver of Hempstead took over with 1168. GiGiorgio's of Schenectady held its top spot in the Class A team competition.

Easter Recess

The tournament will recess for the Easter holiday next weekend and resume the following weekend. It continues on weekends through May 25.

Syracuse President

Saturday night, Mrs. Alberta E. Crowe of Syracuse was elected to a three-year term as president of the State Woman's Bowling Assn.

Other officers elected: Mrs. Gladys Secor of Geneva, sergeant-at-arms; Ermine Mulholland of Albany, Ann Steele of Olean, Mrs. Theresa B. Reynolds of Binghamton, and Mrs. Katherine Linder of Jamestown, executive committee.

Other tournament leaders included Blount of Sandy Creek, Class C teams, and Eve Weed of Lockport, Class C singles.

Vic Wertz Injured, Lost To Tribe Nine Weeks

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The injury jinx still is dogging the Cleveland Indians, this time cutting down veteran Vic Wertz—the one solid man in Manager Bobby Bragan's infield.

The 33-year-old first baseman, a slugger who belted polio for a loop in 1955 and was voted The AP's Comeback of The Year award in '56, suffered a fractured ankle yesterday and will be lost for at least nine weeks.

That means it might be June 1 before Wertz is ready for even pinch-hit assignments.

Hurt Sliding

The injury came as Wertz slid into second base in the third inning of a 12-10 exhibition defeat by the San Francisco Giants at Tucson, Ariz. His spikes caught in the dirt.

Wertz was second only to Washington's Roy Sievers among American League runners-batted-in leaders with 105 last season. Vic led the club with 28 homers last season and hit 32 the year before. The Indians are expected to put in a hurried recall of Joe Altobelli, sent back to the minors just last week, while getting as many games as he can from Mickey Vernon, the 39-year-old first baseman collected from the Boston Red Sox for the waiver price last January.

Recall Altobelli

Altobelli divided last season between Columbus of the International League and Cleveland, batting a mere .207 in 83 games with the Indians. Vernon played in 102 games with the Red Sox, batting .241.

Either way, the Indians will be hurting in view of their already unsettled infield. It doesn't figure to be an easy task to move back to the first division from that sixth-place finish of last season that resulted from injuries to Herb Score, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Don Mossi, Cal McLish and Stan Pi-tula—all pitchers, and just about all the Indians had last season.

ROSE SCHATZEL

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

VERO BEACH, Fla. — (NEA) — The ballplayer will tell you that the guy in the front office never makes a base hit.

On the other hand, the athlete is first to admit that a club is only as good as its front office.

Anyway, the slough of indecision in which Walter O'Malley kept the Dodgers and the Brooklyn fans for a solid year before moving to Los Angeles continues at the club's East Florida training headquarters here.

Things simply are not the same without The O'Malley and his cigar around and the club president confides to intimates that he will be fortunate to make the Dodgers' opening game in the huge Los Angeles Coliseum on April 18. O'Malley, you see, is confined to his home in Amityville on Long Island's south shore after an intestinal operation.

O'Malley is missing just when the outfit needs his business acumen most. Those who contributed more generously to making the Dodgers the National League counterparts of the Yankees for a decade are old. Walter Alston requires a shortstop and a catcher, among other items.

It is imperative that the Dodgers show early foot in Southern California, where on June 3 Los Angeles voters decide whether O'Malley gets those 300 acres in Chavez Ravine.

It was Bill Klem, the old umpire, who pointed out that owners bump into trouble whenever the manipulation of finances are placed above the play on the field. It is unwise for them not to nourish the belief of the boys and the people in the game. The customers are disenchanted when they realize that the magnates' lone objective is prospective television millions.

Sure enough, O'Malley is now faced with these difficulties.

WHEN O'MALLEY, THE lawyer-banker-business man, paid off Branch Rickey, he set up a triumvirate, the others being Emil J. Bavasi and Francesco Thompson, vice-presidents. More recently, Buzzy Bavasi, who came out of DePauw and won his spurs as a business agent in the minors under Larry MacPhail, was elevated to general manager.

But judging by the confusion around the old Naval Air barracks at Vero Beach, this distribution of authority may have come a bit too late to do much good for the next important two or three years. The club has run out of players rounded up by Rickey.

From the time the camp was first pitched at Vero Beach, the several fields were cluttered up with pheonoms, genuine and synthetic. Great, great and just great were all a baseball writer heard from Leo Durocher, Charley Dressen and even Burt Shotton. From Duke Snider to Don Drysdale, there was much to write about.

THIS IS NOT TRUE this trip and the ultra-conservative Alston makes the situation even drabber. Dressen, back as a coach, necessarily is strangely silent.

"There was one bad deal," said one of the older club attaches in the messhall. "It sent Chico Fernandez to the Phillies for $75,000. Several of us knew then that Chico was the shortstop we would need to replace Pee Wee Reese, but we had nothing to do with top level decisions."

The silly controversy with New York baseball writers who covered the club for years would have been smoothed over by O'Malley.

As presently constituted, the Dodgers are hardly the type of production that is going to be a blockbuster in Hollywood.

They are sorely in need of, among other things, Walter Francis O'Malley out in front making quick decisions and beating that big bass drum.

Solem, Real Inventive Genius, Sparked Football Rule Changes

By CHESTER L. SMITH

NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Spring football practice is on through the land and with it the retirement of one of the game's genuine inventive geniuses.

At 65, Ossie Solem steps down as the coach at Springfield College in Massachusetts. He had been hard at it for almost 40 years.

There was the year Ossie came up with his controversial Y formation at Syracuse. He had his center turn his back to the opponents' line and pitch the ball to the backs, much in the same fashion that pitches are fed off the T.

The rule makers couldn't wait to make the Y unlawful. This they did by commanding all line-men to face the line of scrimmage.

Solem knew his new maneuver wouldn't work any magic. But he had a poor team and what he was doing was succinctly said by Jimmy Conzelmann when he collected a handful of intricate formations "take the minds of the alumni off what happens after the ball is snapped."

Solem joined that select group of coaches who, through the years, prompted rule changes.

Pop Warner was one of the greatest at plaguing the gentlemen who put together what can and cannot be done.

Long ago, there was great consternation when one of Warner's Carlisle teams concocted the idea of stuffing the ball under the back of a player's jersey. Pop put out an almost unstopable screen pass. Like Ossie's Y, they were quickly killed.

The shift came in for considerable adjustment by coaches who speeded it up until the demerol had scarcely a chance. It's a wonder Solem didn't fit in here, too, because at Minnesota he played under Dr. Harry Williams, a shifting fiend. Solem had distinguished company at Minnesota. Bernie Bierman was a teammate. So were Bert Baston and Pudge Wyman, fabled figures in the north.

Solem began coaching at Drake. It was there that he pulled off the first of his many surprises. To the consternation of such perennial toughies at Nebraska, which at that time was beating Notre Dame so often that the Huskers were dropped from the schedule, Kansas and Missouri, Drake made off with the old Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Solem's reputation became national in the 1920's when Knute Rockne of Notre Dame called Drake "the best coached team we've played in a long time."

Solem's next stop was at Iowa. There he was gifted with three of the Big Ten's better backs on Joe Laws, Ozzie Simmons and Dick Crayne.

***

In 1937, Solem went to Syracuse. If his success with the Orange was not as spectacular as had been hoped, he never failed to field solid teams. A Burmese halfback, Wilmet Sidat-Singh, who could throw strikes with a football, was used cunningly.

Solem had as assistant at Syracuse, Biggie Munn, who was to go to Michigan State and put the Spartans on top. When Munn became the Michigan State athletic director, Duffy Daugherty switched over from his assistant's post. He was one of Ossie's players at Syracuse.

Ossie Solem was satisfied to step down the pace when Springfield tapped him in 1946. As he had at all the stations along the way, he quickly became a popular figure, even though he no longer was parading the big time.

Leads With Bowling Ball

SEATTLE — People in arguments have been hit with many things, but it remained for Peter J. Trynasty to take out his opponent with a bowling ball.

Trynasty got involved in an argument during a match in Seattle. At the height of a heated altercation, he hit the other man in the face with a bowling ball. The man's cheek bone was broken and 13 stitches were required to close his wounds.

Trynasty was indefinitely suspended from membership in the American Bowling Congress.

Trynasty, for some time a member of leading Seattle teams and possessor of an average in the high 190's, gained national attention when he qualified for the finals of the 1954-55 All-Star Tournament in Chicago.

It was there, when his thumb became raw from the long grind, that he used a thin leather thumb guard for the first time.

The guard since has been marketed by several firms and is standard equipment with many bowlers.

Rangers and Detroit Face Uphill Fight

DETROIT — Only a complete turnaround can save the puncheon Detroit Red Wings from elimination in their Stanley Cup semifinal series with the rollicking Montreal Canadiens.

A Montreal victory here tomorrow night would be the death knell for the Wings, who've been able to muster only three goals in three playoff games.

The Canadiens opened a commanding 3-0 lead last night in the best-of-seven series by skating to a 2-1 overtime triumph. Andre Pronovost put the clincher past Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk after 11:52 of sudden-death play.

The New York Rangers also were facing an uphill battle in their semifinal series with the Boston Bruins. The teams return to action tomorrow at Boston with the Bruins holding a 2-1 advantage. All the remaining games will be played in the Boston Garden.

Boston beat the Rangers 5-0 Saturday, but star scorer Bronco Horvath was injured when hit by a stick. Horvath may be able to play tomorrow.

Pronovost picked up a loose puck at the Montreal blueline and skated the length of the ice before firing the winning goal past Sawchuk last night.

"This was the biggest one I ever scored," said the jubilant Pronovost, who is in his second National Hockey League season.

Kid Bassey Defends Crown Against Morena at L.A.

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

The little guys fight for big money Tuesday night when Nigelia's Hogan (Kid) Bassey defends his world featherweight title against Mexico's colorful Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno at Los Angeles.

The international contest at Wrigley Field is expected to lure around 20,000 fans and a $250,000 gross. The 15-rounder will not be telecast.

$70,000 Guarantee

For this first defense of the 126-pound division crown, the 25-year-old African has been guaranteed $70,000 plus expenses. Moreno, 21, will receive $38,000 plus expenses. Few featherweights aside from Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler ever have collected such fat purses.

Bassey, a fine boxer-puncher, is an early 2-1 favorite. He is an all-around fighter who won the crown vacated by Saddler when he stepped France's Cherif Hamia in the 10th round in Paris, June 24, 1957. That was the final bout of the elimination tournament.

Moreno Sluggs

Moreno is a slugger who wins by a knockout or else. He has won 29—all by knockouts—lost two decisions, been stopped once, and fought one draw. Bassey has won 50 of his 61 fights, 17 by knockouts.

Sandy Saddler, now retired, will have a rooting interest in tonight's television 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. The ex-featherweight champ trains Rudy Sawyer of New York who meets Jimmy Peters of Washington in the 10-round feature (Dumont, 10 p. m.).

Calhoun at Louisville

There should be plenty of action at Louisville Wednesday night (ABC-TV, 10 p. m.) in the catchweight scrap between middleweight contender Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N. Y., and light heavyweight ranker Yolande Pompey of Trinidad. Both can punch.

Kid at Philly

A couple of veteran campaigners, former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Tony LaRocca seems to do his best in the mixed circuit. Maybe it's the atmosphere, but at any rate, he crashed his second big "600" in successive weeks last night with a 625 on games of 189, 232 and 204 at Johnny Ferraro's Bowlerama. In the same loop, Sis Balash, moving rapidly towards the top as one of the area's top keggers, hit her 600, a 604 classic on solos of 183, 209 and 212.

Warner Miller blasted 620 in the Central Rec. Mixed at Sangi's with games of 171, 215 and 234. Bob DePuy missed that charmed circle with 586 and singles of 209 and 204, Bob McCaffrey 217-209-384, Floyd Tilton 535, Laura LeMay 441, Harold Smith 208-526, Mabel Chapman 405, Ed Ashdown 506, Bill Beckert 501, Liz Smith 414, Joe Badalamente 200-526, Betty Macholdt 427, Rose Schatzel 190, 186, Ann Parkes 400, Virginia Hoffman 454, Shirley Williams 436, Bob Enright 510, George Magley 517, Viola Worden 403, Mabel Dunham 418, Angelo Altomari 500, Pete Altomari 219-522, Vince LaRocca 511, Sue Healey 421, team results: Gingers 2, Lowe's Coal 1; Dunham Construction 3, Hayes Lincoln-Mercury 0; Ed's Tree Service 2, Worden's Construction 1; Chez Emile 2, Lowe's Calso 1; Spotters 3, Andy's Furniture 0; Relyea's Sales & Service 2, Rainbow Inn 1; Alpine 2, Jones Dairy 1; Bill Beckert's Truching 3, Mt. Marion Inn 0; Utility Platers 2, Naders 1; Fil-Jon Mfg. 3, Pheasant Inn 0.

MILLER'S 620 series, including a 234 solo, salvaged one game for Colonial Tire against Rockface Diner in the Central Rec. Edward Lowe 210-536, Peggy Lester 501, Amy Miller 424, Ann Apa 412, Marie Bechtold 490, Bruce Bruck 514, Paul Khederian 515, John Bechtold 501, Doris Ennist 492, George Every 532, Ora Boughton 447, Elinor Burberg 487, Fred DiBella 509, Ken Boughton Jr., 202-512, Helen Schneider 436, Harold Thompson

NUMBER OF FARMS ON THE DECLINE—The long-time downward trend in number of farms in operation in America continued through 1957, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The estimated 4,856,800 total represented a 2.3 per cent decrease from the previous year and was over a million farms, or 17 per cent, under the level of 10 years ago. Early estimates indicate there will be another 100,000 fewer farms in operation in 1958.

Four Marooned Hikers Rescued By Helicopter

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK — Four Stanford University hikers marooned in the high Sierra by snow were rescued by helicopter today. All were reported in good condition.

The quartet, two girls and two boys, were rushed to a hospital for observation. They had been marooned since last Thursday while on a six-day, 60 mile hike across the mountains.

Chief Ranger Oscar Sedergrén announced the rescue. One of the students, 22-year-old William Pope, has been seriously ill with a respiratory infection, possibly, pneumonia, since last Thursday. The other three are suffering from exposure and exhaustion. Pope is the son of a San Francisco architect.

The three with Pope were Michael M. Roberts, 21, of Neenah, Wis., Stanford Alpine Club president; and two co-eds, Lenore Lamb, 21, Orinda, Calif., and Margaret Meyer, 21, Seattle. It is about 25 miles from Yosemite Park up to the high plateau camp of the stranded students, several thousand feet higher than the park valley.

Claims Bureau Anti-Indian Activity Allowed

NEW YORK — Oliver La Farge, president of the Assn. on American Indian Affairs, says the U. S. Interior Department tolerates anti-Indian activities in the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This is on both national and local levels, says a letter from La Farge to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton which was made public yesterday.

La Farge told Seaton that the bureau, under the guise of rebuilding Indian economies, is nullifying President Eisenhower's campaign promises to American Indians. La Farge said is eating away tribal land holdings. La Farge's association supports a proposed Senate resolution that would stabilize Indian land holdings and set up an American Indian assistance program for social and economic development of Indian communities.

Check Chimney Fire

Firemen checked a chimney fire in the house of Robert Van Gaasbeck, 50 Murphy Street, Sunday night. Units from Central and Wiltwyck Stations, Wicks Engine and Excelsior Hose companies answered an alarm from Box 1651 at 7:11 p. m. Units from Central and Cordts answered a call at 1:52 p. m. Sunday for a grass fire at Second Avenue and Larch Street.

Arabs Accuse Israel Of New Aggression

JERUSALEM — The United Arab Republic today accused Israel of new aggression following a 75-minute tank-mortar battle on Israeli-Syrian frontier near the Lake Huleh reclamation project. The Israelis issued countercharges.

There have been repeated clashes in the area. The Arabs oppose any work on the reclamation project since it signifies the Israelis are solidifying their hold in the sector claimed by Syria.

Thirteen Dead In State Mishaps Over Weekend

ALBANY — Thirteen traffic deaths in New York State marred a weekend favored with balmy weather.

Two lives were lost in fires between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Both the fire victims were elderly women.

Mrs. Rosina Marsh, 81, died at Pittsford yesterday when her clothing caught fire from a cigarette she was smoking.

The Monroe County sheriff's office said the blaze was confined to the bed where Mrs. Marsh apparently had been sitting and smoking after she finished a meal.

Mrs. Irene Caulkins, 62, of Oneonta, died in a flash fire Saturday when flames from a gas stove ignited gasoline fumes in the kitchen where she was cooking.

Other deaths: Syracuse — Paul Zaleski, 67, slipped on a patch of ice, fell in the street and was struck by a car Saturday.

Potsdam — Mrs. Edith May Raster, 63, of North Bangor, a car driven by her husband collided with a freight train at a grade crossing Saturday.

North Tonawanda — Raymond Wolanske, 19, of North Tonawanda, was struck by an automobile Saturday night.

Buffalo — Willie Jackson, 33, in a two-car collision Saturday.

Buffalo — Elial L. Van Lew, 17, East Aurora, in a two-car collision Saturday night in East Aurora.

New York — Morris L. Shopkin, 47, and his wife, Tessie, 45, struck by an automobile in The Bronx Saturday night.

Fishkill — George C. Wurm, 40, his motorcycle went out of control, struck a guard rail and turned over on Route 9 Saturday.

Queens — An unidentified man was struck by a car Sunday.

Poughkeepsie — William Strobel, 81, patient at the Hudson River State Hospital, struck by a car while walking along Route 9 Sunday night.

Paul Smiths — Armand St. Mary, 36, of Malone, and Kenneth Barcomb, 2, of Owls Head, two-car collision at intersection Sunday night.

Montgomery — Albert Hoekstra, 21, killed Saturday when his car, which had been jacked up, dropped and crushed him to death.

Will Seek Stay On Order to Keep Oswego Teacher

OSWEGO — The Board of Education said today it would seek to stay a Supreme Court order to reinstate Mayor Vincent A. Corsall as a high school teacher.

Thomas Zaia, attorney for the board, said he would apply for the stay before Justice Eugene F. Sullivan in Fulton. Sullivan issued the reinstatement order last Saturday.

The board dismissed Corsall from his teaching assignment last Jan. 1 when he took office as mayor.

The mayor had been scheduled to return to classroom duties this morning. However, Principal Ralph M. Faust said Corsall could not resume his teaching until official word had been received from the board.

Zaia said the board had not yet received a formal order from Sullivan.

Sullivan held that the "duties of the mayor and those of a teacher in the city's public school system are quite independent of each other" and therefore "do not conflict."

Pennsy Garment Makers to Meet On Proposals

HAZLETON, Pa. — The Pennsylvania Garment Manufacturers Assn. meets here this afternoon to say yes or no to proposals intended to end a strike by 8,000 dressmakers, which started March 5.

A union spokesman said in New York last night that union and management officials had come to "considerable agreement" toward settling the dispute.

A few PGMA members are located in Upstate New York and Massachusetts.

David Gingold, northeastern director of the International Ladies Garment Workers, said he and other union officials met yesterday with representatives of the PGMA, the United Popular Dress Manufacturers Assn. and a citizens deputation from Wilkes-Barre.

Beyond saying that considerable agreement had been reached and that today's meeting would be decisive, Gingold had no comment.

Principal fruit raising regions are the Hudson and Champlain valleys, Finger Lakes region and western New York.

Esopus Census To Begin Tuesday

Workers will begin taking a special federal census of the town of Esopus on Tuesday—the first since 1950.

Supervisor Roger Mabie (D.) said today that the purpose of the census is to determine if there has been an increase since that time. An increase would form the basis for increased state aid.

A year ago a number of towns and the city of Kingston took a special federal census. Esopus was not among these, however, and made arrangements to have it taken this year.

A representative of the Federal Bureau of the Census has been in the township for the past week making arrangements for the census. He has hired a crew leader and a number of census enumerators, all local people.

Mabie said the census would probably require about 10 days. The town has been divided into sections with an enumerator in each section and the census will be taken simultaneously throughout the township.
